REDS CREATE WILD RIOTS IN GERMANY

Widespread Disorder and Bloodshed Follow Activities of Communists
in Country

ARE FEEDING UPON WORKERS' DESPAIR

Efforts Are Being Made to Arouse Revolutionary Fervor Among Unemployed Men

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—In an attempt to prevent a continuance of the widespread disorders, riots and bloodshed which have accompanied unemployment demonstrations in Germany during the past forty-eight hours, seventy-five Communist leaders were held in jail today after a raid on their headquarters.

The Communists, accused of feeding on the desperation of millions of unemployed workers, were rounded up at a restaurant, where they were presumably planning further demonstrations for today.

The Berlin police had been informed of an important meeting of Communist leaders last night. A cordon of plain-clothes men surrounded the entire district, waited until the meeting was under way, and then swooped down on the restaurant. Many of the prisoners were armed.

The recent violent outbreaks in Hamburg, Berlin and other industrial centers are viewed as reflecting a state of mind in the German masses which has had redoubled force in recent days to obtain by direct negotiation with the owners what they could obtain under the bill.

COMMUNISTS IN CONGRESS

BERLIN, Germany, Feb. 1.—The Congress of Revolutionary Shop Councils opened in Berlin today, with concomitant manifestations of Communist enthusiasm throughout Germany. This great thrust of the Communist party had been carefully prepared. The recent troubles, chiefly in Hamburg, had been deliberately planned.

New Nurses' Home, Jubilee Hospital

AN important addition to Victoria's hospital accommodation is provided in the completion of the new Nurses' Home at the Jubilee Hospital, which will be formally opened within the next few days. The building, which occupies the western section of the hospital grounds, facing on Richmond Road, has been constructed at a cost of $190,000. It has 150 rooms, with accommodation for 220 nurses, which should meet the needs of the hospital staff for some years to come. In addition to providing much more commodious and comfortable quarters for the present nursing staff, the building releases the rooms now occupied by the nurses in the Strathcona ward, which will be redecorated and altered to accommodate sixty-five beds for patients, thus increasing the hospital accommodation to this extent.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Jubilee Hospital is working on plans for a dance to be held at the Shrine Hall on Thursday, February 20, the proceeds from which are to be used in connection with the furnishing of the new Nurses' Home. Of special interest in connection with the dance is the announcement that a Studebaker car, Dictator model, which has been run less than eight hundred miles, is to be awarded on that evening to the lucky winner of a prize contest to be held in association with the dance. Tickets for the dance are now in circulation, in books of ten.

Mr. George McGregor is chairman of the Jubilee Hospital board of directors, and Mr. H. H. Shandley is chairman of the building committee, which has had charge of the details of the new Nurses' Home.

Goodwill of Powers Shows
All Are Striving to Make
Conference Real Success

By EDWARD PRICE BELL
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 1.—Immense importance by general and undragging admission has been the effect of the Briand-Kellogg Pact upon the favorable course of the Five-Power Naval Conference from the day of its opening. The pact outlaws aggressive war. It makes, in consequence, any preparation for such war an implied intention, possibly to trample upon the terms of the pact. Absolutely nothing thus far has developed at the conference suggesting that in back of the mind of any Government represented lies the idea of aggression on its part in any contingency.

PARIS PEACE PACT
This is a conference; that is to say, strictly in the spirit of the Briand-Kellogg pact. The nations manifestly are preparing not for offense but for defence. That is the greatest and infinitely the most encouraging fact about the conference. How much more the American Government, as a sample, set by the spirit rather than the technique of naval discussions, came to light when Washington agreed to accept as a basis of negotiation the French proposal for compromise fusion of the rival theses of naval limitation known as the global and the categorical.

That American concession did a vast deal of good. It tended to disarm the suspicion of the smaller naval powers. Great Britain, which has been tenaciously to the categorical as opposed to the global proposal for limitation of navies, also went over partially to the French view, and Japan, ever prone to agree to opposition, suggestion, offered no opposition. These developments enhanced the good feeling and confidence characterizing the city and paved the way for definite progress.

When the Latin nations came to the conference, they found a situation of goodwill, and a feeling of confidence.

FORMER BANK
MANAGER DIES

MR. ALEXANDER MONTIZAMBERT PASSES AT JUBILEE HOSPITAL

Was Formerly Manager of Principal Branch of Bank of Montreal Here

One of the best-known retired bankers of Victoria, Mr. Alexander Montizambert, passed away yesterday morning at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, where he had been critically ill for some time.

Mr. Montizambert's funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, at 2:30 o'clock, and interment will be made subsequently at St. Luke's burial ground, Cedar Hill.

The late Mr. Montizambert came of a very old French family, which settled in Quebec in the seventeenth century. He was born on July 26, 1854, at Quebec, a son of the late Charles Montizambert, and was educated at Bishop's College, Lennoxville.

Entering the Bank of Montreal in 1879, Mr. Montizambert served as manager at Wallaceburg, Ontario, Amherst, N.S., and Lindsay, Peterborough and Brantford, in Ontario, before being transferred in December, 1914, to Victoria. Here he was manager of the main branch until his retirement, about six years ago.

He acted as a member of the advisory board of the Royal Trust Company here. Another office which gave him great pleasure was his association with St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay.

He is survived by his widow, Emile, a daughter of Colonel Archibald Ponton, of Belleville, Ontario, at present residing at 1727 Bank Street, and one daughter, Mrs. E. Gerald Sanford, of Duncan.

Great Gales in Mediterranean Play
Havoc With Much Shipping

(British United Press)
LONDON, Feb. 1.—Storms extending from the English Channel to the Mediterranean disrupted shipping along the Continental coast today and struck parts of Italy. Coastal boats of France and Spain were battered by a gale and heavy rain, accompanied by thunder and lightning, which is unusual at this season. The 64,000-ton liner, the French liner, was in a critical condition at 4:23 P.M., in a distress call to the French radio station at St. Nazaire. The Danish steamer Selandia was crippled by the gale and was grounded.

The British cruiser Tiger was slightly damaged before a squadron consisting of the Renown, Repulse and Tiger reached Gibraltar. The Dutch steamer Meroppe sent out a distress call, picked up at Gibraltar, that its steering gear was broken and the bridge, rail and other parts carried away by waves, at about 7:14 P.M., 9-58 W.

The British destroyer Versatile went aground near King's Beach on a terrace, and was damaged. The Admiralty tug Rumbler also went aground attempting to aid the Versatile, but both were later refloated. An Admiralty coal lighter lost its hawser and was grounded.

There was no word from the Spanish steamer Clervana, of 1,600 tons, which has been missing with a crew of nineteen men and several passengers, leaving Gijon, Spain, more than a week ago. Heavy rain and snow fell in Italy, especially at Genoa, where a blizzard was reported. The Tiber and other rivers were rising rapidly, with threats of flood in Central and Southern districts.

Four Cruisers Are Cut Out of Navy Programme

LONDON, Feb. 1.—It was authoritatively stated today that the British Government has decided one big cruiser and one small cruiser from the 1929-30 programme, which had originally called for three cruisers, one large and two small. None of the orders for the 1929-30 programme has yet been placed.

These deletions, in addition to the cancellation of the cruisers Surrey and Northumberland from the 1928-29 programme, make a total of three large and one small cruisers which will not be built.

LAW CHIEFS TO STUDY SYSTEM OF BROKERAGE

Conference of Attorneys-General to Attend Parley at Toronto on February 10

PROVINCES WILL BE WELL REPRESENTED

(Canadian Press)
WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 1.—Conference of provincial Attorneys-General to discuss the brokerage situation will probably be held at Toronto on Monday, February 10. Invitation has been received from Attorney-General W. H. Price, of Ontario, by Attorney-General W. J. Major, of Manitoba, to attend a parley at Toronto on that date.

Immediately after receipt of the message from Attorney-General Price late this afternoon, Mr. Major stated that Manitoba would be represented at an all-Canada meeting, wherever it is held.

DISCUSS STOCK BROKERAGE
According to Mr. Major, the invitation telegram stated that the Attorney-General of Ontario had received advice that Attorneys-General of the various Canadian provinces are in favor of calling a conference for the purpose of discussing stock exchange, brokerage and company matters, and to provide for uniform trading conditions. It extended to the Attorney-General, or his representative, an invitation to meet in Toronto on February 10. It would seem quite probable, suggested Mr. Major, that a similar telegram had been dispatched by the Ontario Minister to the Attorneys-General of the various provinces.

ACCOMPLISHED
SPANISH DUKE
VISITED HERE

Duke of Alba, Hero of Recent Revolution, Was in Victoria Two and a Half Years Ago

WIDELY KNOWN AS HISTORIAN

Messages from Madrid show that the Duke of Alba has been the hero of the bloodless revolution, which has ended the long domination of General de Rivera as dictator.

The Duke of Alba, who is also, tenth Duke of Berwick in the British peerage, was a visitor to Victoria two and a half years ago, and paid special attention to the archives of the Provincial Government owing to the valuable records which exist in Spanish monasteries of the Spanish exploration of the North Pacific Coast in the eighteenth century.

He is a scholar of European reputation, has written extensively and shown, perhaps, the most intelligent interest in the archives of any visitor of recent years.

Like King Alfonso, the Duke is a great admirer of British institutions, is a polo player and hunter, and believes in Spain being conducted closely on the lines of a limited monarchy.

He has taken the Department of Education in the new Government, that portfolio being allotted owing to his successful intervention in the strike of the Madrid University students, and it is understood that, owing to his wide knowledge of international affairs, he is to be the Minister of State of Spain, a post comparable with that of Minister of Foreign Affairs in other countries.

SENSATIONAL INCIDENT IN PARIS HOTEL

General, Who Is Russian

appears and Is Not

M. KERENSKY ASKS FOR POLICE SEARCH

Parisians Lose Interest in Everything but Strange
Mystery of His Sudden Removal

By JOHN GUNTHER
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

PARIS, France, Feb. 1.—A request has been made by the former Russian Premier, Alexander Kerensky, to the Paris police asking them to search the Soviet Embassy on the Rue Grenelle, from top to bottom in an effort to find traces—or the corpse—of General Alexander P. Koutepov, who mysteriously disappeared on Sunday.

For the first few days no one took the Koutepov affair seriously. People thought that his broad daylight abduction was a publicity stunt or that the doughty general had simply gone out on a party and had not come home yet. Now, however, the case is developing into a first class political sensation and it dwarfs all other Paris news. Even Premier Tardieu's achievements in London, and the success of the French transactional proposal, has been relegated to the back pages.

NOT SEEN SINCE
The police have questioned two hotel employees, who say that they saw General Koutepov halted on Sunday morning by two men in a taxi, with a third man dressed as a police officer nearby. They argued with Koutepov and appealed to the "policeman." He then entered their hotel.

Public Warned
Prowlers Ready
For Emergency

The city and municipal police have considerable data on the habits of the prowlers responsible for a number of robberies in this locality during the past three months.

The robberies show systematic habits, as evidenced by the way in which certain districts are selected. The robbers possess a car for prompt escape in case of trouble, and apparently one at least is armed, as a revolver is among the objects missed from one house where a surprise visit was paid in the absence of the occupants.

The appearances of the prowlers apparently follow careful preliminary scrutiny, as the men seem to have an uncanny knowledge when the occupants of a suitable house are temporarily absent.

Nocturnal visitations, as some robberies have occurred in daylight hours, in circumstances of daring, adventure being desired rather than avoided.

Speculation is rife among those who have investigated the thefts as to where the plunder is cached, as quite a haul has been obtained from the series of forced entries, nor has any section of the community escaped attention.

CAUSE STIR BY CUTTING DOWN SHIPS

Elimination of Two More
Cruisers by Labor Government Creates Minor Sensation

VIEWS DIFFER UPON WISDOM OF ACTION

Delegates Will Not Meet
Till Tuesday but Will Occupy Time by Studying French Plan

(Associated Press)

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The British Government has dropped from its naval building plans two more cruisers than was realized this week when Rt. Hon. A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, made his announcement to the House of Commons that the cruisers Northumberland and Surrey had been cancelled.

The information became public while the various delegations to the Naval Disarmament Conference were at play over the week-end lull in negotiations, and caused something of a minor sensation in naval circles.

DISARMAMENT GESTURE
Besides the two projected 10,000-ton ships mentioned by Mr. Alexander, one of the House of Commons, the British Admiralty today confirmed reports that two other cruisers, one of 10,000 tons and the other something under 7,000 tons had been dropped from the 1930 building programme. These are "paper ships," and one of them, the 10,000-tonner, might almost be called a mythical ship, for the British official return of fleets for 1930, giving the complete building programme, does not list it.

The British Government has made no effort to characterize cancellation of these building plans as a gesture toward disarmament, but the British press today, nevertheless, pointed to the Government's action as such.

Japanese Sailor Held for Murder Is Given Remand

VANCOUVER, Feb. 1.—Preliminary hearing of a charge of murder against R. Furuta, sailor, alleged to have shot and killed Iwao Akazawa, storekeeper on their vessel, Ryujin Maru, in port here last Thursday, was completed in police court today. Remand until next Saturday was ordered and in the interim the procedure of committing the facts to the Governor-General and asking his sanction to prosecute will follow. Under the Criminal Code such a procedure is necessary in the case of offenses alleged to have been committed on board foreign vessels in Canadian ports.

SENSATIONAL INCIDENT IN PARIS HOTEL

cab. The General has not been seen since.

General Koutevov was named by Grand Duke Nicholas as chief of the Russian emigrants in France, and was a bitter enemy of the Bolsheviks. Allegations are rife that Soviet agents here, or members of the o-gay-pay-oo (Soviet secret police) decided to abduct General Koutevov not only for the purpose of putting him out of the way, but to get revenge for the revelations of their former councillor at the Embassy, Besedovsky, and in retaliation for the verdict of the trial of M. Litvinov, brother of the Soviet Minister of Foreign Affairs, who was alleged to have decamped with Soviet funds, but was acquitted by a Paris court.

WAS RUSSIAN REFUGEE

It is known that Besedovsky, Litvinov and Koutevov were well known to each other. Besedovsky testified at Litvinov's trial in his defence. General Koutevov has been host to both of them. Soviet officials admit their dislike for Besedovsky and Litvinov, but they deny as utterly repudiating charges that they know anything of General Koutevov's disappearance.

It is revealed that General Koutevov had deposited 50,000 francs (about $2,000) at the Banque Commerciale Industrielle, which recently failed. Only 35,000 francs ($1,400) were found in the bank's coffers, and the police think it possible that General Koutevov may have committed suicide because the bank closed its doors. This, however, is far too tame a theory for the francophile-Bolshevik press. One theory follows another in fantastic progression.

One is that General Koutevov was chloroformed in a taxi, smuggled down to Havre, and then shipped on a Soviet boat to Russia, where he will be executed. Another is that, duped by the two alleged abductors, who, it is assumed, told General Koutevov that they were detectives in corporation, he was spirited to a waiting airplane and was then dispatched—where?

IS THERE A FURNACE?

Another report alleged testimony of a taxicab driver who said he saw the body of a man removed from a taxi near the Russian Embassy in the Rue Grenelle. Another insists that in the bottom of the Soviet Embassy in Warsaw there is a huge furnace, designed to incinerate a corpse without leaving any trace, that some similar arrangements exist in the Paris hotel.

Russia emigrants, who are violently anti-Bolshevik, are up in arms. It was revealed that General Koutevov had a private bodyguard of thirty-three Russian taxi drivers, all ex-officers of the old division. But why did General Koutevov walk to church last Sunday morning? One of his own men was waiting for him 200 yards from his house with a taxi. He was seen to leave his house. He never reached his friend posted so conveniently nearby. These are among the mysterious details to which the Paris police are now turning their full attention.

which the present administration has been responsible, that there has been no overrunning of the revenues. For the year ending March 31, 1929, on the estimates prepared by the former Government, there was shown in the public accounts brought down on the opening day of the session a deficit of some $3,000,000.

GOVERNMENT READY

The sudden cutting off of the debate on the Address, it was feared in some circles in the Legislature, might result in the slowing up of the progress of the session, as it was expected that the Government might not be ready with its other legislation. This is not to be the consequence, it is announced by the Government. Unless there is a general acquiescence on the part of the Opposition with the course of the administration, there will be business brought down well ahead of the requirements of the House.

London, they came asking themselves this question: "Is the Briand-Kellogg pact what it purports to be, an impartial world peace treaty; or is it a legal framework designed to perpetuate the Anglo-American world dominance inherent in sea supremacy?"

Apprehensions latent in that question have gone by the board. Every act of the greatest naval Powers since the opening of the conference has shown their desire to eliminate any sort of rudeness or bullying from international relations and to grant all the Powers that same assurance of adequate defence which they themselves are seeking.

of Ontario, prefers Toronto as the scene of the conference, it is reported. DEVELOPMENTS DELAYED
Further developments in the affairs of Stobie, Porting & Co., the firm which made an assignment on Thursday, and the only one which did not benefit by the order of the Government allowing the companies under indictment to resume trading, will be forthcoming within twenty days from the date of assignment. Under the provisions of the Bankruptcy Act, the creditors must meet within this time to elect a receiver and hear the statement of the company's financial statement, filed in the Supreme Court by the official custodian.

The appointment by Hon. Mr. Price of Mr. N. Tilley, K.C., as special Crown prosecutor, recalls the trial of Peter Smith, former Provincial Treasurer, in 1924. This was the last occasion on which Mr. Tilley was chief Crown counsel. Litigation following the recent stock crash and subsequent investigation of brokers' offices continues to increase. Today Mr. G. A. Swift, assisted by a writ in Supreme Court against S. A. Taylor & Co., local shares of Columbario Gold Mines, Ltd., and for an amount which he claims is due him.

CITY'S DEBT WILL BE CUT BY $221,165

$2,065,106.08 has been paid off principal, and by the end of the present year, an additional sum of $221,165.82 will be repaid, making a total to the end of 1930 of $2,286,271.90 of annual repayments.

Payments this year on general city debt started on February 1 and will continue until December 1. The payments to be made in 1930 on the serial payment loans are as follows: Local improvements, $50,931.92; local improvement refunding, $106,000; Johnson Street bridge, $18,000; Sooke Lake waterworks, $24,233.20; bank overdraft, $22,000.

SIXTH PAYMENT

The city treasurer said that the sixth payment under the twenty-year scheme of paying off the city's overdraft in the bank would be made today. Thus the city will have completed almost two-thirds of the term over which the refunding is spread.

Including this year's payment of $22,000 on the bank overdraft, the amount so far contributed to reducing this debt is $117,000. The bank overdraft first started in 1917, due to depression in war time. The overdraft continued until 1923, when the council took a definite stand to pay back the money, and budget in such a manner as to prevent any further obligation, if this was still to the end of 1923, $585,000 of a bank overdraft had accumulated. Each succeeding council up to that time had endeavored to pay up the previous overdraft, but the end of each year seemed to add to the burden, and so in 1924 a scheme was devised and a refunding issue floated and the bank paid. This issue consisted of serial bonds and has been steadily reduced since the first payment in 1924, until now the total has been brought down to $468,000.

CAUSE STIR BY CUTTING DOWN SHIPS

The fact that two additional cruisers were to be dropped was mentioned in a written reply in Parliament by Mr. Alexander last Wednesday, but his phraseology did not make it clear that two ships besides the Surrey and Northumberland were not to be built.

BARGAINING POWER LOSS

It was stated that of the original 1929 British naval construction programme, only one 6-inch gun cruiser remains. While some sections of the press accept this situation as a sweeping gesture of good will, other quarters criticise the Labor Government's action as ill-timed on the ground that it means a loss of bargaining power during the conference.

Before settling down to next week's actions, negotiations which first may see the introduction of figures into the naval discussions, the delegates to the conference surrendered unconditionally to the restful influence of the long official English week-end.

It will be even longer than the usual London week-end for the conference will not meet again until Tuesday when it digs into the intricacies of the French compromise plan between fleet limitation by global tonnage and limitation by various classes of warships.

Monday will be devoted to private conversations among the delegations.

to raise revolutionary fervor to a high temperature. The aim of the congress, so far as can be judged, is to have the Communist party forbidden in Germany, since the Communists frankly state that "they prefer to fight in the dark." This delightful situation it will not be reached, since the authorities have decided to fight demonstrations openly, but not to outlaw the Communist party.

POLICE ARE ARMED

Since last night the Berlin police have been in readiness, which means that they are armed with carbines in addition to the usual revolvers and sticks. The police are instructed to smother all riots—a difficult task, since the Communists are to provoke the police by all possible methods.

This plan has been fairly openly stated in the Berlin Communist newspaper Rotebanner. The German police feel sure that since the failure of the Chinese revolution Communist Russia has systematically planned a political offensive in Germany, which is now being promoted to be the chosen theatre for Communist operations.

Several Germans have been trained in Moscow as agitators. During the last few weeks, the police have been carefully watching Germany's eastern frontiers for the arrival of these graduates. The most important person in the present unimportant person is the present official head of the German Communists, Heinz Neumann.

had been made to blow up this part of the museum, or whether the museum authorities had been elaborately hoaxed.

WORKING ON MYSTERY

Meanwhile, Scotland Yard detectives set to work on the mystery. The mysterious telephone call was received in the afternoon from a stranger who said he had overheard a conversation between Indian students in which they constantly referred to a bomb and to the Indian room, but didn't know if a bomb had actually been put there.

The Indian room contains a superb collection of Indian religious sculpture of great beauty and rarity. If the bomb had exploded, the loss to both Great Britain and India would have been irreparable. The room is on the upper floor of the big museum building on the eastern side.

FEELING RUNS HIGH

Political feeling against Great Britain has been running high among certain sections of Indian students living in London, many of whom work in various sections of the museum. The struggle for independence of the Congress Party decided at Lahore recently to work for complete independence by means of "civil disobedience" instead of for dominion status.

DRIEST JANUARY

VANCOUVER, Feb. 1.—The month of January was the driest experienced in Vancouver since meteorological records have been kept here. Precipitation, including snowfalls, amounted to only 2.75 inches, as compared with a twenty-four-year average of 8.90 inches.

VOTERS GIVEN EVERY AID IN REGISTRATION

Application to Have Name Placed on Provincial List May Be Made at Many Places in District

CHANGE OF ADDRESS MUST BE REPORTED

New names are being added daily to the official list of persons entitled to vote at the next provincial election in the electoral districts of Victoria city and Esquimalt. Enrollment is being made at the Court House, Bastion Square, with Mr. C. H. Mabon, registrar in charge. Application to be placed on the list may be made either there or at the office of any electoral commissioner or notary public, or other person authorized by law to take affidavits, and application forms are supplied at these offices.

Since the last general election, numbers of voters in Victoria city and Esquimalt have changed their place of residence. It is requisite that they should notify the registrar in writing of their new address.

No one is entitled to be on the voters' list in more than one electoral district. Anyone who was registered in a different electoral district, but who is now resident in Victoria city or Esquimalt, and who desires to vote where he is now living should apply for a removal notice, which may be obtained at any of the offices mentioned above, and which should be filled out and sent or presented to the registrar.

All persons are entitled to be registered as voters who are:

- British subjects of the full age of twenty-one.
- Residents in British Columbia of six months' standing.
- Residents in the electoral districts of one month's standing.

Women have the same right to be registered and to vote as men; and naturalized citizens have the same right as British subjects by birth. No property qualification is required, and no charges or fees are to be paid.

Applications may be made, and notices of change of address or removal from one electoral district to another will be received until April 5 next, but early and prompt application or notification is desirable.

Court of Appeal Victoria Sittings

W. J. Morgan Fuel Company, Limited (Respondent) vs. British Columbia Electric Railway Company (Appellant).—In this case, which arose out of damage caused to respondent's truck through a collision with one of appellant's street cars, the Court of Appeal has given judgment. The appellant's appeal was dismissed, and the judgment of the County Court judge was affirmed.

Davenport (Appellant) vs. McEwen et al. (Respondent).—Certain licentiates of pharmacy employed as druggists complained to the Male Minimum Wage Board that the wages paid to them as employees were inadequate for the services rendered by them. They requested that an investigation be held under the Male Minimum Wage Act.

A meeting of the board was held to consider the question. It was then decided that the occupation of the complainants was not one to which the act applied, and the board declined to conduct the inquiry.

Appellant applied to the Supreme Court for a mandamus to compel the board to hold the inquiry. The judge held that to grant the mandamus would have the effect of infringing the principle that statutes which limit common law rights must be expressed in unambiguous language. Freedom of contract is a right jealously guarded at common law. The act, where applicable, greatly curtails it, and it does not detract from this.

The judge held that the word "occupation" did not include "profession" clearly and without ambiguity. If the Legislature intended to interfere with the freedom of contract in the professions it could have put the matter beyond question by using the word. If the Minimum Wage Act applied to one profession it would apply to all. The consequences, then, might prove so serious that if the Legislature so intended it would have used the word "profession" in defining the scope of the act.

The application was refused. The hearing of this appeal, commenced on Friday, is continuing. Mr. H. W. Davey and Mr. W. H. M. Haldane for appellant; Mr. H. S. Wood, K.C., for respondent.

The peak is visible from Massivie, on the Canadian Pacific Railway, and also from the roadway between Banff and Lake Louise. Inset, Miss Ishbel MacDonald.

Chinese Usher in New Year in Old-Time Style

Feasting, Music and Firecrackers Welcome Year 4883 on Chinese Calendar—Celebration Lasts Seven Days

With firecrackers, music and feasting, Chinese of Victoria began their celebration of the Chinese New Year on Friday, January 30 and will continue until Wednesday, February 5.

While it is known that Chinese residents here celebrate New Year's Day, January 1, on the Occidental calendar, hundreds are reluctant to discard the picturesque old folk of their native land and in the meantime feasting, music and firecrackers will be seen and heard in Chinese areas in this city.

On the Chinese calendar, Friday, January 30, marked the beginning of the year 4883, it being that many years since the beginning of the Tai Hao dynasty, which marked the start of the Chinese calendar. The big day of the celebration is the seventh and last. On this day the Chinese celebrate the birth of mankind. Birthdays celebrated on preceding days are as follows: First day, chicken; second day, dog; third day, pig; fourth day, sheep; fifth day, cow; sixth day, horse.

Such celebrations, which daily signalize the birth of mankind and of different animals speak well for the sense of gratitude of the Chinese both here and in the Orient.

During the seven days of rejoicing lights are kept burning in the various halls to keep away the evil spirits. This, too, is an ancient custom, dating back to the starting of the Tai Hao dynasty, the beginning of the Chinese calendar. While a number of celebrations have been carried out in all parts of Chinatown, the centre of much good cheer and merriment has been the Dart Coon Club of Canada, Flagard Street.

Members of the Chinese Freemasons or the Chee Kong Tong, from different parts of Vancouver Island and the Mainland, have been in the city for the purpose of celebrating the Chinese New Year.

After the preliminary talks on administration, the needs and value of public health generally, there will be a course of lectures offered covering the specific infectious diseases, such as measles, smallpox, scarlet fever, diphtheria, etc. together with such information that will be of interest and value to the people of British Columbia in avoiding infection and recognizing the early symptoms, and the value and means of obtaining early protection from all these diseases.

The provincial board of health will broadcast over CPQT every Monday night from 7 to 7:30 o'clock. It is the object of the provincial health officer to present short talks on the activities and objectives of the public health programme that is being instituted in British Columbia for the coming year. The speakers will be members of the various departments of the board, and also such persons who are closely in touch with the activities and programme of public health and preventive medicine that is being brought before the public through every channel that is at the disposal of the provincial board of health.

THE LEGISLATIVE SESSION

Premier Tolmie's contribution to the Debate on the Address covered a good deal of ground. He deserves equal commendation with Mr. T. G. Pattullo, the Leader of the Opposition, in agreeing to the latter's proposal that the Debate should be shortened. There has been a good deal of dissatisfaction in past years because of the amount of time wasted through members wandering into the by-ways of discourse on matters of minor interest. The brevity of the Debate last week permits the Legislature to get down to the business of the session. The Government, on its part, has a number of its measures prepared for submission to the Legislature, and is ready, whenever it is considered advisable, to bring down the Budget, which is customarily the outstanding feature of the session.

Dr. Tolmie spoke with optimism on the future of British Columbia. His Government is working on the principle of promoting prosperity by encouragement of trade and industry. One thing to which he drew attention was the assistance given to the lumbermen in sending a trade delegation to Australia. This move should be productive of good results. There is a possibility of increased trade and settlement growing out of the report which the Government has forwarded to Mr. J. H. Thomas, the British Minister of Employment. The Premier is no doubt justified in not making this report public, inasmuch as it may contain what is regarded as confidential information. Mr. Thomas is casting about for methods to help trade and industry in Great Britain and so find a solution for the unemployment problem. There is reason to hope that British Columbia can benefit in the process.

Dr. Tolmie's Government during its term of office cannot be charged with extravagance. There has been careful supervision of expenditure, and economy has been practised in many directions. The best proof, however, will be found in substantiation of what Dr. Tolmie himself says about financial administration when the Budget is brought down. The Government has spent in a large way on roads, and intends to increase means of transportation. Those who know what Mr. N. S. Loughheed, as Minister of Public Works, has accomplished in this particular, will endorse in all respects the praise accorded to this Minister by the Premier. Mr. Loughheed is popular with both Liberals and Conservatives and very highly esteemed all through the province. He is recognized as far-sighted and an excellent executive who envisions what are the people's transportation needs, and, moreover, he shows a determination to meet these to the extent that this may be done by better and more highways.

Most of the matter dealt with by Premier Tolmie in his contribution to the Debate treated on what was outlined in the Speech. In fact, the Premier elaborated the statements that were contained in that Speech, and is to be complimented on having stuck to that text. His allusion to the liquor policy of the Government was brief. The Government is to reassume responsibility, but we feel safe in saying that beyond the legislation for the discontinuance of export houses it does not intend to amend existing regulations which have been working well. There is, indeed, nothing the Premier could have been expected to say, though he might have explained the reason for the amendment to the liquor legislation whereby the Government reassumes responsibility. The Government has to carry all the onus of criticism. It is logical then, that it should be in a position to insure that regulations are observed and that thereby any criticism has no foundation in fact.

The Legislature, thanks both to Dr. Tolmie and Mr. Pattullo, has got away to a good start, with a promise that business will be dispatched in a businesslike way. The public will watch to see which party in the House maintains this principle with the fewest retrogressions. It is Premier Tolmie's desire that no undue time should be wasted, though he has no intention of interfering with pertinent discussion. A good reputation that any Government can secure is that of having vision and business acumen, the latter betokening, in one respect, ability to insure the dispatch of business in the Legislature in the interests of public economy.

A. MONTIZAMBERT

In the history of local banking there have been few figures who have so completely won public confidence as Mr. A. Montizambert who passed away yesterday. For nine years he was manager of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal when it was located at the corner of Government and Bastion Streets. He administered its affairs during a most trying time in the financial history of the country, when the Great War was in progress, when credit for development purposes was necessarily restricted because of the greater demands of national needs. Then, as always during his banking career, he was a zealous, careful, and conservative representative of the great corporation whose interests he supervised here. His banking experience was a prolonged one, and it was given to him to enjoy several years of rest after his labors when he settled down here in the city he loved so well.

In business and in retirement, Mr. Montizambert had qualities and characteristics which endeared him to a very wide circle. A staunch and true friend, with a warm disposition and likeable in all his relationships, he possessed a fund of information not only on financial affairs but on many phases of public endeavor. His interest was always of the keenest in local affairs and in the politics of the province and the Dominion. He was a warm-hearted citizen whose advice was of the substantial kind, and that advice, during his banking days, was always extended in the finest spirit of kindness. In effect, his characteristics, taking them all in all, were of the sterling variety, of the type that makes for the highest standard of citizenship. Mr. Montizambert will be keenly missed by all who either had business relations with him or social contact, and the deepest sympathy, in which this newspaper joins, will be extended to his widow and daughter.

THE BISHOP OF COLUMBIA

Bishop C. D. Schofield, who leaves this week for a well-earned tour previous to his attendance at the Lambeth Conference, will take to that ecumenical gathering of nearly four hundred bishops and archbishops of the Anglican faith and order a very gratifying record of progress in the diocese which was committed thirteen years ago to his pastoral care. The Diocese of Columbia has prospered both spiritually and materially. Quite a number of churches and parsonages have been built or renovated, missionary interest has increased and religious education of youth has been emphasized. This is a pleasing report to bear to the Church of England, which has so liberally aided the ecclesiastical province of British Columbia in its pioneer work.

The crowning achievement of the diocese is the new cathedral which Bishop Schofield, after years of planning and prayer and with the co-operation of loyal clergy and interested laymen, dedicated last September. To his courage, tact, persistency, business ability and boundless faith unlimited credit is due. It is an open secret that when at times the completion of the nave seemed impossible Bishop Schofield held on until a way was found. He was the life of the executive group. Few of the bishops, if any, can report so beautiful a House of God erected in recent decades. The placing of the cathedral at the disposal of the religious leaders of the city for the recent civic community service was a contribution to the cause of church unity which, among other matters, will engage the Conference at Lambeth Palace. Every member of the diocese, and, indeed, of the community in general will wish Bishop and Mrs. Schofield bon voyage and a healthy trip after the burdens of the past few years.

The Soviet Government is intensifying its war against religion. A late order describes any celebration of Christmas or even the ringing of bells as an act of counter-revolution. Church bells are being confiscated on a large scale. Conspicuous of religion during the Christmas period (the Old Style) was shown by displays of buffoonery at church doors. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, who has now taken the Soviet Power into the embrace of his protecting arms, will have to remember the old proverb that, "who is embarked with the devil must make the passage with him."

The professional politician only came into existence with the institution of payment of elected representatives for their services. That is the bane of representative institutions, now firmly established in our midst. It explains why members absent themselves from their duties whenever the whim seizes them. They know that their pay will go on just the same.

LABOR AND PATRIOTISM

Without doubt the time will come when Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Thomas will renounce the habit of the bagman. They will cease to "travel," and will be compelled to face the House of Commons and the country with what courage they may. We have a little hope for their success as pride in their knowledge or their skill. They brag a vast deal about their country, and they have never hesitated to raise their hands against it. They have supported the chain of tradition, which should have bound them to the past. They care only for the advantage of their party and their class. So bitter is their dislike of patriotism that they are commonly to be found on the side of their country's enemies. And the result of their policy is to weaken the remedy is to strengthen the hands of the police, not to sow the country with bolts and bars, man traps, spring guns, bandogs, barbed wire, an army of watchful officials and a general atmosphere of distrust.—London Evening News.

LAW ENFORCEMENT IN BRITAIN

In so far as our country has been kept crime-free by comparison with many others, it has been done not by making crime difficult, but by making punishment certain. Like General von Moltke, who told the Kaiser he had six plans for leading England but none for getting out again, the professional criminal knows a dozen simple ways of making easy money in England, but no reliable way of remaining at large to enjoy his plunder. If this admirable system shows signs of weakness the remedy is to strengthen the hands of the police, not to sow the country with bolts and bars, man traps, spring guns, bandogs, barbed wire, an army of watchful officials and a general atmosphere of distrust.—London Evening News.

It is always a pleasure to meet an old navy man. That was our privilege as well as our pleasure a few mornings ago. It may be neither the privilege nor the pleasure of any man or journalist of the next generation. We ventured to make a suggestion to that effect to the retired veteran of the Senior Service, who was very careful to emphasize in the course of the conversation the fact that the Navy is the Senior Service, and therefore is entitled to precedence on ceremonial and other occasions over all other Imperial services. But our suggestion was vigorously and scornfully rejected.

"There always will be a navy as long as there is England. Whatever disarmament conferences may decide or do, there always will be a British navy. Ramsay MacDonald may issue orders renouncing contracts for the construction of ships, but ships will be built. Whatever other nations may do, Britain will continue to rule the waves." What can a sceptic or a Doubting Thomas say when he meets such abounding optimism as that? Our friend had served in at least four of the Imperial naval stations, on sail and steam, and he was sure that as long as winds blew and water ran, on every quarter of the globe veteran navy men would be met who had served just as extensively.

Well, there are many veterans of the British Navy living in and around Victoria, and they purpose holding a reunion, and they are going to make their reunion permanent affairs, or at least as enduring as the British Navy. They are going to meet annually. They are going to hold a feast, and they are going to be piped to the festivities by the shrill notes of the boat's whistle. They are going to sing and listen to the old songs and stories (the older the better). They are going to drink their toast of rum or their glass of beer, with a decided preference for the tot of rum—and some of them may not be too old nor too stiff in the joints to dance a hornpipe.

That is what the naval veteran wanted to tell us and wanted us "to tell the world." That is what we are doing to the best of our ability. And so far as it is possible for a sailor to have a grievance, our veteran had a grievance. The junior services have been holding annual reunions for years. The senior service, notwithstanding its seniority and its superiority as the first line of Imperial defence (as even members of the MacDonald Government were forced to admit when addressing the naval reduction conference), has never held a reunion. The grievance is to be remedied. The first reunion of the naval veterans of Victoria and district will be held some time during the present month. We have done what we could to assist in this movement, and we hope the movement will be successful, and that the veterans when they meet to listen to the pipe of the boat's whistle summoning them to eat, drink and be merry, may have a good and a profitable time.

When the police of Toronto, a few months ago, summarily quelled a demonstration of the "reds" (one of the peculiarities of the "reds" is the habit they have acquired and cultivated of holding demonstrations in front of embassies and public buildings), The Toronto Star, The Manitoba Free Press, certain of the Vancouver newspapers, and The Victoria Times, lifted up their voices in lamentation about the dreadful intolerance of holy Toronto. The readers of those newspapers were told that the liberty of the subject, freedom of speech, and we do not remember how many other traditional British institutions, were in jeopardy—for if men are not permitted to say the thing they will say they will be tempted to do things they should not do, and the end will be an explosion.

Last week the police of Vancouver did the very thing the police of Toronto did a few months ago, and there has not been a single cheer from the champions of the liberty of the subject in Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver, or Victoria. We suppose if the demonstrators in Vancouver had been permitted to hold their meeting, they would have passed resolutions, but the passing of resolutions will not provide employment even for those who are eager to be employed nor manna for the mouths of hungry women and children; but before resolutions were passed there would have been inflammatory speeches from the mouths of demagogues who would rather be idle than employed, and there might have been trouble for the police, whose primary duty is to preserve law and order and prevent the commission of crime.

RIPPLE ROCK, SEYMOUR NARROWS

Sir,—Captain Neroutso, in The Colonist of January 29, expresses himself quite opposite to statements made by the genial captain to friends of mine not long since, when asked if Ripple Rock was a menace to navigation as reported in Vancouver. He replied: "Our company is not interested in the removal of Ripple Rock. With high-powered steamers such as we have and a clear passageway of 1,400 feet between the rock and Maude Island, and with one hundred feet of depth, there is no danger. If money is to be devoted to anything there, filling the narrow passage between Maude Island and Quadra Island would be better." This would stop some of the backwash towards Ripple Rock.

The captain, in his statement in your paper refers to the meeting he just attended in Vancouver. I dare say that event had the magic effect (using nautical expressions) of inducing our popular captain to change his course, due to undercurrents, and I admit he had a right to alter to suit the atmosphere at the time.

It is our duty, in every possible way, to aid in the development of this beautiful city and island, and Ripple Rock, in the near future, will be worth millions to us if it is removed. We who are the most interested in these matters have not even been consulted. The progressive citizens in Vancouver have formed a destructive habit as far as our welfare is concerned and feel now that they are entitled to appropriate anything that we foolishly will allow them to remove.

In New Westminster lately an attempt was made to take away a public office. The citizens there soon put a stop to that. Many of the most important offices in the Parliament Buildings have been removed. Such a proceeding would not be allowed in any other province.

Victoria first and all the time should be our motto. Then we will prosper.

I wish to thank Mr. Bowden for his very appreciative letter published in the Colonist of January 29. The interest he has taken by his communication appearing today. His reference to a swing bridge and other remarks do not apply. A bridge of that construction would not be suitable.

A DAY OF PRAYER

Sir,—Canadians look forward hopefully to a new crop year. Most of our prosperity depends on our farm crops. Our crops depend on the weather. Good weather is a National Thanksgiving Day acknowledgment as giver of all. Would it not, therefore, be fitting to commemorate the Spring crop season with a National Day of Prayer, in which to ask God for suitable weather for the crops, and His blessing on the work of the nation? The last Sunday in March would be suitable.

For some years God has been laying His hand on Canadian crops with increasing severity, culminating in the year-famine conditions in parts of the prairie provinces at present. Are we learning the lessons these untoward events are meant to teach us?

It is suggested that those who see the importance of a National Day of Prayer write a personal letter to the Prime Minister, Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King, Ottawa, asking for the appointment of such a day.

It is further suggested that churches, Provincial Legislatures, city, town and village councils, boards of trade, rural municipality councils, farm organizations, and organizations generally, pass resolutions asking that a National Day of Prayer in early Spring should be appointed by the Government, sending these resolutions to the Secretary of State, Ottawa.

NO SUCH CHURCH

Sir,—Last Sunday's Colonist, page eleven, columns three and four, says in part: "During the initiative of the Presbyterians through a deputation sent out by the United Church of Scotland five years ago."

As fully explained by me in The Colonist of July 9 and September 8, 1923, page four, there was not, nor is there any such church in Scotland as the "United Church of Scotland five years ago."

Soviet Legation Withdrawn From City of Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 1.—Alexander M. Butler, Russian Minister to Mexico, yesterday received orders from Moscow telling him to close the legation.

The official completes the severance of relations between the two countries, the break starting when Mexico recalled its representatives from Moscow as a protest against Communist demonstrations made in front of the Mexican embassies in Washington, Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro.

Jots From Geography

BRIDAL VEIL Falls, in Yellowstone Park, is so called because of the film-like spray that rises from the falling water. The waterfall is located in the heart of a verdant valley, surrounded by imposing mountains and verdant forests of pine and spruce. While the waterfall is not unusually large, it is one of the best known on the continent and makes an unforgettable scene for tourists who visit the national park.

Provincial Rabbit Breeders to Hold Winter Show Soon

The British Columbia Provincial Rabbit Breeders' Association announces that the Victoria Winter Rabbit Show, postponed from January 20-22, owing to inclement weather, will be held at the Willows on February 10, 11 and 12. With the break-up of the frost, many inquiries have been received from Up-Island and Mainland breeders, and all indications point to a record show.

Those desiring to enter exhibits are requested to get in touch with Superintendent Greenwood, P.O. Box 1031, who will receive entries up to and including February 7. Prize lists may be obtained by telephoning Mr. Greenwood at 8054L, or Mr. W. G. Bird at 7698L2.

The monthly meeting of the association will be held at the Y.M.C.A. at 8 o'clock, Tuesday, February 4, and all interested are invited to be present.

DRUGS EXCITE THE KIDNEYS, DRINK WATER

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The Canadian men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. (Adv.)

PREPARATIONS FOR KIWANIS MEET STARTED

MR. CECIL TICE AT ROTARY CLUB

CLUB CALENDAR

MONDAY — Gyro Club, Empress Hotel, luncheon, 12:10 p.m.
 TUESDAY — Kiwanis Club, Empress Hotel ballroom, luncheon, 12:10 p.m.
 TUESDAY — Rounoud Table, Empress Hotel, supper, 6:15 p.m.
 WEDNESDAY — Kumtiks Club, at Home, 1118 Langley Street, 8 p.m.
 THURSDAY — Rotary Club, Empress Hotel ballroom, luncheon, 12:10 p.m.
 FRIDAY — Usadians Club, Dominion Hotel, dining-room, luncheon, 12:45 p.m.

The Victoria Kiwanis Club directors have appointed Mr. Harold M. Digson, chairman, and Messrs. Kenneth P. Ferguson, Thomas Kelway, William A. Lucey, Darrell W. Spence, J. Brooke Stephenson and Walter M. Walker as the chief convention committee in connection with the annual Pacific Northwest Kiwanis district convocation, to be held here on September 14, 15 and 16. This committee will be responsible for the arrangements for the convocation and from it will radiate a number of subcommittees, which will be appointed shortly.

Mr. Gordon McLeod, head of the Gordon McLeod English Players Company, who are appearing at the Royal Victoria Theatre, will be the speaker-guest at Tuesday's luncheon of the Kiwanis Club in the Empress Hotel ballroom, commencing at 12:10 p.m. The Kiwanis orchestra will provide the entertainment.

It is anticipated that a delegation of Victoria Kiwanians will journey to Nanaimo on Wednesday to attend the installation of officers of the Nanaimo Kiwanis organization, which will be conducted by District Lieutenant-Governor Digson.

The executive of the Kumtiks Club will entertain the members of the club and their friends on Wednesday evening in the new club-rooms, 1118 Langley Street, commencing at 8 o'clock. During the function an address will be given by Miss Hilda Hesson of Winnipeg.

MR. HERBERT N. SIBBALD, manager of the Imperial Optical Company, will be the speaker at tomorrow's luncheon session of the Victoria Gyro Club, which will take place at 12:10 p.m. in the Empress Hotel. The Gyro sycophants will furnish the musical programme.

The Pacific Northwest District of International Rotary will hold its 1930 convention on May 12 and 13 at Spokane, Washington. The International Rotary concludes this year will take place in Chicago, from June 23 to June 27.

Mr. Cecil Tice, provincial agronomist, will address the Rotary Club in the ballroom on Wednesday evening in the new club-rooms, 1118 Langley Street, commencing at 8 o'clock. During the function an address will be given by Miss Hilda Hesson of Winnipeg.

The Victoria Table of the Loyal Knights of the Round Table will hold its usual weekly supper gathering at 6:15 p.m. in the Empress Hotel on Tuesday next.

Powers at Conference Puzzled Over Naval Status of Dominion

By HERBERT BAILEY
 British United Press.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—What happened at the meeting yesterday of the Empire delegates to the Five-Power Naval Conference is a matter of some mystery. It would appear that there was an attempt to create a committee, the procedure of which would have been to keep the Dominions out, but this idea was abandoned and the committee now set up will allow the Empire delegates to be represented individually or jointly.

Thus the Dominions won a victory, and this may help to clear the air.

Although most of the delegates at the conference appreciate the peculiar position of the British Empire and understand Empire representation, there has been much unofficial discussion as to why the Dominions should be represented, and there is a tendency to regard the Empire delegates as mere nominees for Britain.

The fact that Canada has a very small naval force and India and the Irish Free State and South Africa hardly any at all, and that only Australia has any real naval strength, has caused many to ask what possible interest the Dominions can have in the conference. In answer it is argued that they all have special interests in Empire communications and world peace and that their status must be recognized.

PENSIONERS TO FORM AUXILIARY

Association Will Send Representative to Pension Committee Meeting at Ottawa

The directors of the Canadian Pensioners' Association met at a round table conference on Thursday. Various matters of importance were discussed, and one of the leading topics was the coming session of Parliament, as the coming session of Parliament may mean the passing of a pension bill.

It was agreed that in the event of a pension committee being appointed at Ottawa, this association would endeavor to send a representative.

The reorganization of the Ladies' Auxiliary was discussed, and great interest was shown on this question, as it was presumed that a number of new members would be added amongst those who were left alone owing to the hazards of war.

Several other matters of importance were taken up by the board, which will be placed before the next general meeting.

TRADING AGAIN PERMITTED BY BROKER FIRMS

Local Offices, Prevented by Ontario Government From Doing Business, Resume Operations

BIG GAINS MADE ON OIL MARKET

The very difficult situation of both brokers and clients here on Friday, brought about by the Government suspension of operations on the part of some brokerage firms, was remedied yesterday before it had attained more alarming proportions by official permission being given for the resumption of trading by the firms affected by the suspension.

At the offices of Solloway, Mills & Co., a notice was put up stating: "Doing business as usual on cash basis only." A report on the financial condition of Solloway, Mills & Company was issued in Calgary yesterday, stating that the firm was 100 per cent solvent.

Following this report, it was announced that the firm could resume trading in the grain markets, as well as in all stock markets, and trading in all branches was resumed in the Victoria office. The Ontario Government, which had seized the books and securities of the firm, made arrangements for it to handle all securities and pay out and receive moneys under its supervision.

In consequence of Stobie, Potting & Co. having made an assignment, the firm was not restored to the exchanges and the Victoria office remained closed. Resumption of business was welcomed as the flowers in May at the brokers' offices, where criticism of the stoppage had been severe. The oil market became even more active than on Thursday, with large gains being made on many stocks which had been hampered down as a result of the arrests made in Toronto.

GOSSIP BUSY ON DOMINION ELECTION DATE

Poll Before Midsummer Regarded at Ottawa as Possible—Voters' List to Be Prepared First

ELECTORS IN DOUBT AS TO PROCEDURE

Political gossip as reported from Ottawa includes many conjectures as to the probable date of the coming Dominion general election. The last election was held in 1926, so that the life of the present parliament will not necessarily end until some time in 1931, but it is very seldom that a general election is deferred to the last possible date. The usual practice is for a Government to go to the country some time during the fourth year after the preceding election, and it has been regarded as probably a certainty that the electors will be summoned to the polls some time during the present year. The point most doubtful seems to be whether dissolution will come before or after midsummer.

THE VOTERS' LIST
Because of all this uncertainty a watchful eye is being kept by both parties for the signs of actual work to be done on the new voters' list. In former years the provincial lists were largely used, but the present Government is determined to follow another method. A new list for all Dominion constituencies is to be prepared by officials appointed by the Government. One chief reason advanced for preparing these necessarily costly lists instead of using provincial lists, is that in some of the provinces the lists are several years old, and it is desirable to have lists thoroughly up to date when the poll is taken. The intention is not to have the lists compiled until shortly before the election. Therefore any instructions issued to proceed with the work on the list will be taken as an intimation that dissolution is not far off.

The situation at present is that no instructions to proceed with the work have yet been issued, but that the returning officers, who will be in charge in each electoral district, have recently been appointed. It is argued that this would not have been done unless the Government contemplated the possibility that the services of these officials might be required in the near future; that is, in other words, unless the Government contemplated the possibility of a general election at a date earlier than had, until recently, been under consideration.

It is, therefore, with keen interest that politicians are awaiting news that instructions have been issued to the returning officers informing them how the lists are to be prepared, and what steps they are to take for that purpose, something upon which both they and the public are a good deal in the dark. Such instructions have not yet been received here.

AVIATORS' BODIES NOT YET REVEALED

Efforts Still Continue to Find Remains of Flyers but No Success Follows Search

(Canadian Press)
NOME, Alaska, Feb. 1. — Dog teams and airplanes today were rushing supplies and men to a temporary camp near the twisted frame of the airplane which Carl Ben Eielson and Earl G. Bendisen wrecked November 9, about ninety miles southeast of North Cape, Siberia, to continue the search, which started last Saturday, for the two men.

Orders were received by the two Russian aviators, who flew to Nome during the week to take passengers from the icebound ship Stavropol, to remain and aid in the search for the two bodies. One Canadian pilot and three Alaskans are also at the scene and making daily trips from the fur trading vessel Nanuk, also icebound, to the wrecked airplane, carrying supplies and men, and assisting in the search.

MAY NEVER BE FOUND
Although for several days hope was held that the flyers might have escaped from the terrific crash which sent parts of the airplane and its cargo scattering over an area equal to an average city block, that has disappeared since mitters, a helmet and other articles belonging to the men have been uncovered. Because of the prevalence of wild animals in the region belief has been growing among old Alaska residents that the bodies will never be recovered. All Russian dog teams and those from the Nanuk were being used to establish a camp for the workmen at the scene of the wreck.

TOURIST TRADE SHOWS GROWTH

Steamship Official of C.P.R., Making Tour of Western Canada, Takes Optimistic View

TRAVEL INCREASED THROUGHOUT WORLD

The increase of activity and efficiency among the tourist organizations of the world, should result in a marked increase of travel, in the opinion of Mr. William Baird, steamship passenger traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway company, who is making a five-week business tour of Western Canada and the Pacific Coast at the present time.

Mr. Baird recently stated his views of the abnormal financial situation in Canada and the United States, which, he stated, would, with its adverse reaction on tourist resorts, ocean cruises and general travel, serve to stimulate travel and travel agencies to a greater keenness.

"The Japanese Cabinet," he continued, "has already accepted plans for a new International Tourist Bureau which, if the Cabinet's action is approved by the Diet, will function in Japan on April 1. Tourist travel to Japan is now the fifth largest source of Japan's income, and the aim of the new bureau is to increase the number of foreign visitors to Japan by 100,000."

NEW LINERS
Signs were not wanting, said Mr. Baird, that the transportation companies of the world were alive to the need for constant improvement in travel facilities. England, Italy, France, the United States and Germany were building larger and speedier ships to bridge the Atlantic, and among these were the two vessels at present being constructed by the Canadian Pacific Railway company, the 40,000-ton Empress of Britain and the 25,000-ton Empress of Japan.

The contribution of the Canadian Pacific to the promotion of Canada as a tourist attraction, Mr. Baird was evidenced by the attractive campaign being launched in the United States by this country, which were bringing increasing thousands of Americans to the St. Lawrence and the Gulf of St. Lawrence, American and Far Eastern travelers to Vancouver and Victoria.

"An indication of the part played by a great transportation company in the promotion of travel is well illustrated," Mr. Baird said, "by a few of the latest movements to Canada in the forthcoming season by our ships. The British Medical Association, and competitors in the Empire games to be held at Hamilton, Ont., this Summer, all bringing large numbers to Canada. In the Medical Association party there will be a group of tuberculosis specialists who have been enabled by the generosity of the Sun Life Assurance company of Canada to come here and make a study of Canadian sanatoria."

"Going in the other direction there will be excursions to Iceland, the World's Poultry Congress, the Chamber of Commerce parties, Great Britain and the Orient, the Empire Press, Union delegates from Canada, Australia and New Zealand, a large party of Iowa known as the Shenandoah party, and innumerable student parties from all over the United States."

"40"—The Danger Age For Most Men

With middle-age ailments attacking over two-thirds of those past 40, it is time every man who notices such distressing symptoms as lameness, pains in back and joints, nervous irritability and lack of energy, should take a course of treatment with Dr. Southworth's URATABS. "I never found anything better than this," said a man who has been suffering from these ailments for years. "I now sleep soundly and get up in the morning full of energy. I am no longer troubled by how stubborn your case may seem to be, a ten-day trial of Dr. Southworth's URATABS will show you the relief—and you can make the test with no risk of cost for any good druggist will supply you on guarantee of money back if not satisfied. ## FEW CHANGES CONTEMPLATED IN REVISIONS

Municipal Courts of Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt Move to Revise Assessment Rolls

HAVE UNTIL FEB. 28 TO COMPLETE WORK

While Saturday, February 8, is the day set by statute for the revising of the various municipal assessment rolls throughout the province, the Municipal Courts of Revision have until February 28 to complete, or a period of twenty full days to decide whether this or that property is unjustly dealt with in the matter of overtaxation, or is not carrying its right proportion at the present time. Local conditions govern in all cases, the amount of taxes to be levied on land and improvements; and because of this circumstance it is comparatively easy to assume that the courts of revision for the several municipalities adjacent to Victoria will find practically the same conditions prevailing as when the last municipal courts of revision sat, and revised their respective rolls, and will have few, if any, changes to make, and but few appeals to consider.

Out of a total assessment roll of $10,700,000 in the municipality of Oak Bay at present, there are only three appeals against the roll, and the thirty-nine appeals protesting at the present assessment on dwellings in the district; and if it is finally found that these appeals are just, the total amount effected will not exceed $20,000. Oak Bay municipality imposes a tax of 30 per cent on improvements, all municipal councils having the power under the act of imposing a tax up to 50 per cent. The situation at Saanich and Esquimalt are much the same as at Oak Bay. In the latter municipality, where the tax rate is 25 per cent on improvements at the present time, there are but an inconsiderable number of appeals in, while at Saanich, where the tax is the lowest in the province, 15 per cent, and which the present council are practically pledged not to increase this year, there are fewer appeals against the tax on improvements than in any previous year.

In all three districts, the assumption that there will be no material changes in the assessment rolls should be borne out when the results of the deliberations of the Municipal Boards of Revision are available to the public.

Clubs and Societies

Junior League

At the recent bridge and five hundred party held in aid of the Social Service Sunshine Camp, by the Junior subdivision of the Catholic Women's League, a short address was given by Rev. C. E. Evans, rector of St. Andrew's Cathedral, setting forth the objects of the Sunshine Camp and the splendid work it is accomplishing for the betterment of family life, through the healthful holidays so arranged for mothers and children. The juniors were congratulated upon the success of their undertaking, and among the guests of the evening were the Rev. Father Wood and Rev. Father Scheelan. The prizes, which were presented for competition by Mrs. Angus Campbell, Mr. J. Byrom, and Miss Hunter, were won by Mr. H. Malek and Miss Doris Rines, at bridge, and by Mrs. Newman and Mr. Monahan at five hundred. Miss Margaret O'Neill, as general convenor, was assisted by an able committee.

Royal Bride Chapter

The Royal Bride Chapter, I.O.D.E., held its monthly meeting yesterday at the home of the regent, Mrs. Sidney Wood, who was in the chair. Eleven members were present, including the honorary regent, Miss Morley. Reports by the secretary and treasurer were read and adopted. Plans were discussed for the tea to be held in March, and for the annual meeting which is to be held this month, at which the present officers will be re-elected. The chapter decided to give a set of signal flags to the Naval Cadets. Miss Laura Catterall was appointed to attend to correspondence in connection with the Naval Cadets.

Gonzales Chapter

The annual meeting of Gonzales Chapter, I.O.D.E., will be held at "Molton Combe," the home of Mrs. Curtis Sampson, on Tuesday, at 2:30 p.m. Members are reminded of the annual book shower for the Jubilee Hospital Library, which is to be held at this meeting.

To Hold Silver Tea

Mrs. H. R. Sharples entertained the ladies of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields and a few friends last week at her home on Inez Drive, when she was assisted by Mrs. Clegg. Among the invited guests were Mrs. Barrett, Mrs. Boston, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Clegg, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Dealey, Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Higgins, Mrs. J. C. Newbury, Mrs. McGregor, Mrs. Merritt, Mrs. Leggett and Miss Stocken. Arrangements were made for a Valentine tea in the hall on Thursday afternoon, February 13. Mrs. J. C. Newbury in charge of decorations. Mesdames Barrett, Cooper and Higgins, home cooking stall; Mrs. Sadler, Mrs. Boston, Mrs. Merritt, Mrs. Leggett and Miss Stocken. Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. McGregor in charge of entertainment. Mrs. Butlerfield and Mrs. Clegg, reception committee; Mrs. Sharples, chairman of all committees.

Auxiliary Meets

The regular business meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society was held on Friday, when the following officers were installed: Honorary president, Mrs. Richdale; president, Mrs. McIntyre; first vice-president, Mrs. Alexander; second vice-president, Mrs. Carmichael; chaplain, Mrs. Blackwood; secretary, Mrs. Reston; treasurer, Mrs. Murray; warden, Mrs. McVie; guardian, Mrs. Craigdallie; organist, Mrs. Minus; past president, Mrs. Stephens. Following the meeting refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed.

Conservative Dance

The Victoria Women's Conservative Association will hold an informal dance for the young people of the party in Victoria tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. It is hoped that a large number will accept the invitation and bring their friends. Mrs. Leonard Andrews and Miss Carol Tolmie, daughters of the Premier, are lending their patronage, and many of the seasonal visitors are expected to attend.

Central W.C.T.U.

The monthly meeting of the Central W.C.T.U. will be held on Thursday, at 3 p.m., at the Y.W.C.A. A talk on social work will be given, and the forthcoming educational campaign will be discussed. All members are asked to attend.

Lady Douglas Chapter

The annual meeting of the Lady Douglas Chapter, I.O.D.E., will be held on Thursday, at municipal headquarters, 401 View Street, at 2:30 p.m. As there is important business to be discussed concerning new arrangements for the coming year's work, members are asked to make a point of attending the meeting.

Current Events Class

The usual meeting of the Current Events Class was held on Friday night at the Y.W.C.A. A lively discussion was indulged in by members present on the interesting events which had taken place during the past week. Mrs. H. MacKenzie gave a resume of the week's proceedings on the Five Power Naval Conference now being held.

R. B. McMicking Chapter

The February meeting of the R. B. McMicking Chapter, I.O.D.E., will be held at the Municipal Rooms, Union Building, View Street, on Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock.

Florence Nightingale Chapter

The annual meeting of the Florence Nightingale Chapter, I.O.D.E., will be held at the New Thought Hall, 720 1/2 Fort Street, tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. Tea will be served by the executive.

Primrose Lodge

The Primrose Lodge Choir, D.O.E. No. 32, had a surprise party for Mrs. Langley on Wednesday. The next practice will be held at Worthy D.D.S. Hatcher's home on Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Canadian Daughters

Assembly No. 5, Canadian Daughters' League, will hold its regular monthly business meeting in the Sons of Canada Hall, View Street, on Tuesday evening. A good attendance of members is expected.

Royal Oak W.A.

The Women's Auxiliary to St. Michael's, Royal Oak, will meet on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock for corporate communion, which will be followed by a short business meeting.

Daughters of St. George

Lodge 83, Daughters of St. George, will hold its regular meeting in Harmony Hall tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

UNUSUAL RECITAL HELPS ST. MARY'S

Mandolin, Banjo and Guitar Pupils of Mrs. Attfield Give Programme to Aid Church

Madame Attfield and her pupils gave a much-enjoyed programme at St. Mary's Hall, Oak Bay, on Friday evening in aid of St. Mary's Church; mandolin, banjo and guitar soloists and quartettes making up the entertainment. Color and picturesqueness were lent the occasion by the Italian costumes worn by the members of the orchestra.

The orchestral items were much enjoyed for their artistic expression and harmony. The ensembles were well played, those deserving particular mention for general performance being: "Mazurka Overture," "Ah Che La Morte," and "Love's Like a Star" from the opera "Arland." Two dulcimers augmented the band in the rendering of "Cachucha," and the introduction into this melody of a graceful Italian dance by Lona, was well received; vocal solos by Mrs. Cookman and Miss Mercer, pupils of Miss Kate McGregor, were noteworthy for quality of tone and expression; a mandolin solo by Madame Attfield received merited applause, and the audience was no less appreciative of her artistic rendering of "Old Time Melodies" on the dulcimer.

Three items on an otherwise entirely musical programme were an amusing monologue by Mrs. Dearborn, a well-executed tap dance by Grace Attfield, and a bones solo by Jim Washington, who has won several medals for clever manipulation of the castanets.

During the evening Rev. A. E. deL. Nunn presented proficiency certificates to the following pupils of Madame Attfield, who passed the B.M.G.A. test recently: Banjo, Jean Menzies, Jack Nelligan, Lars Larsen, Bob Patrick; mandolin, Grace Attfield, Rose Botell, Winnie Millard, Joe Mayar, and Robert McQuarrie; Hawaiian guitar, Elsie Snider, Annie Wilderspin and Winnie Ingis; standard guitar, Elsie Snider.

Rev. A. E. deL. Nunn complimented recipients on being the first pupils in Victoria to obtain these certificates, this being the first occasion on which examinations on the fretted instruments have been held here.

Elaborate Plans Made for Firemen's Ball

The Victoria Fire Department annual ball will be held on Friday evening, February 21, at the Empress Hotel, under the distinguished patronage of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Miss Helen Mackenzie, Premier S. F. Tolmie and Mrs. Tolmie, Mayor Herbert Anson and Mrs. Anson, and the board of fire wardens.

At the fire department ball last year much favorable comment was made upon the splendid music, and for this year's function the committee has retained a special orchestra to furnish the music for the dancing. The ball has always proved a colorful event, and ranks as the foremost in Victoria's social calendar, and this year promises to prove the most enjoyable function ever staged by the local department. Strong committees are working hard to make it the most outstanding success, and are leaving nothing undone that would add to the pleasure of their guests.

A special feature for this year will be a sit-down supper which will be served in both the main dining-

We want the clothes you send us to come back to you fresh, and unfaded, with all their original "life."

So we have decided to use Ivory Soap exclusively—to wash everything with this soap which is so pure that the most famous hospitals use it to bathe tiny new babies.

Now, with still greater confidence, you can send us your gaily colored garments, or delicately tinted fabrics, knowing that they will have Ivory-protection. Knowing too, that our Ivory suds are made with water softer than rain.

Could anything be kinder? Because gentle Ivory suds have cleansed them gently, your clothes retain their "youthful" look. Your pretty colored dresses stay crisp and bright. Your delicate silks stay fresh and lustrous.

And you'll notice at once, the delightful soap-free fragrance of every package of Ivory-washed clothes we return to you.

Well-Known Artist To Hold Exhibition

Beginning tomorrow and running throughout the week, an exhibition of about sixty of Major R. F. Leslie's water color and oil paintings will be held at Smith's Picture Shop, 619 View Street.

The collection offers probably the last opportunity Victoria picture lovers will have to see Major Leslie's work, as he contemplates leaving for England shortly. British Columbia coast scenes, pictures of some of the beautiful mountain scenery of the Rockies, and bits of the interior make up the bulk of the exhibition, but a few English pictures will also be found in the collection, which Major Leslie is disposing of here in order to avoid the necessity of taking them to London.

Sooke

On Wednesday evening Mr. E. Throup entertained a number of friends, who assembled to discuss current topics. The chair was taken by Mr. Harry Heigesen. The method of tunneling under the English Channel and manufacturing of pianos were the subjects chosen. Among the guests were Mrs. V. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. G. Gamble, Misses O. Throup, H. Shields, V. Heigesen, M. Richardson, M. Dilley, Master H. Heigesen, H. Welsh, R. Pontious, B. Charters, A. and J. Richardson, C. Dilley and Earl Gray. Mrs. D. J. Whittier acted as hostess, who served refreshments, assisted by Mrs. J. S. Muir and Miss Grace Throup.

Between Twelve and One

By VERNON LODER

He had the keys of the house of Tendon Oaks in his bag and it was now walking.

He knew that it would be wise to square the caretaker in residence to keep his mouth shut about this unexpected visit. But that would be easy enough, and the only doubtful thing in regard to his visit was, to his mind, the likelihood of finding what he was now on his way to look for.

"Those footprints," he mused, as he went along, "had something odd about them. I had that idea from the first. In one way they were too sharp and in another not sharp enough. I had the picture in my mind of the man throwing up the grape with the rope attached to it, so my first conclusion was that he was a professional."

As to the search itself, he was hopeful, if doubtful. A search at random and a search which is incomplete, are never as successful as one in which the searcher covers every inch of ground, even beyond the ordinary scope of his enquiries, and is also looking for some definite object. It is proverbially difficult to find a needle in a bundle of hay, but easier to find the needle you are looking for than to come accidentally on one when you are merely hay-making.

Cobham had brought some sandwiches in his bag and, about two o'clock, he turned into a field, entered a cart shed and sat down for a light meal. He hummed now more gayly than ever, and had nearly exhausted his repertoire of melodies before he put on another pipe and set out again.

It was just growing light when he climbed over the park wall surrounding the grounds of the mansion and struck across the dew-spangled grass. He passed three ponds on his way, debated for a few moments at their verge, and then went on to the drive and across to the great door.

No one seemed to be stirring yet. The caretaker, new to this sinuous billet, was making the most of his bed.

But Cobham had an afterthought. He turned away again and went off to inspect the footprints which had given him so much food for thought. The dry weather since the thunderstorm had preserved, more or less, the original footprints, and he spent half an hour over them and in looking up at the ledges above from every conceivable angle.

With more extensive evidence in his possession, his contemplation of these souvenirs of a tragic night gave him a new clue to their meaning.

"They're too close—far too close," he murmured as he turned away. "As things stood, that was inevitable, and I don't see that I can blame myself for not jumping to it the last time."

A minute later and he let himself into the house and stood in the great hall, listening to hear if his entrance had awakened the caretaker or his wife.

But he heard nothing. The servants' apartments were cut off and some distance away. With luck he might have a couple of hours to himself before he was disturbed. He went back and shut the door.

Then he advanced again, opened a door leading into the library and began a minute search of the room, which even involved climbing up to the top of the bookcases, and inserting a portion of himself into the wide, old-fashioned chimney.

He had searched that and two other rooms, and was about to enter the music room, when he heard feet coming along the passage, and stopped dead. He turned, advanced in the direction from which the sound had come, and found himself confronted by the caretaker, who stopped in the middle of a yawn and gave a cry of alarm.

"It's all right," said Cobham, smiling. "Just paying you an early visit, you know."

The man stared. "But how did you get in, sir?"

"I had the keys, my dear chap. You ought to know that. You were here last time."

"Then you are coming to search again, sir?"

Cobham found two half-crowns and exposed them. "Look here, I haven't come here to search; in fact I haven't come here at all. Can you remember that?"

The man took the coins and grinned. "I think I can, sir."

"And I hope you'll tell your wife the same," said Cobham. "If any of you let out a squeak about my visit today, I'll see that your master hears of it. Just go back where you came from and leave this end of the house to me."

The caretaker understood very well. He could forget a good deal for five shillings, and if he could keep his wife from hearing that Cobham was in the house, that five shillings would be all his own.

"You can trust me, sir," he said, and withdrew again, to return to the servants' quarters and lock the communicating door.

Cobham took his bag and with him, and when he emerged, very hot and dusty, an hour later, it was much heavier, and gave out a metallic sound when it came by accident into collision with a piece of furniture in the hall.

He had locked the bag, and now left it on a big oak settle that stood near the angle of the great hall. He went upstairs then and straight to the bedroom which had been occupied by Mr. Cupola on the night of his death.

As he stood there, he took from his pocket the reproductions of the photographs taken by his expert assistant on the morning after the murder. He studied them in turn, looking up from time to time to compare them with the actual details of the room and its furnishings.

After that he bent and measured the height of the window-sill from the floor, and finally leaned out of the window itself and examined the ledge beneath.

He went next door, into what had been Professor Logard's room, opened the window, climbed out on to the ledge and found that if the nearer half of the sash of the window next door was closed, he could move along the ledge and make an entry into Mr. Cupola's room.

"But now for the final test," he said to himself as he got in again. "I'll have to find that fellow and get him to help me with a ladder. Still, I'm not going to ruin the ship now for the sake of a halfpenny of tar. The nicest theories have a way of turning out duds."

Descending the stairs again, he got hold of the caretaker and asked him if he was any good at climbing.

"You see, you are a much lighter man than me," he explained. "It takes some rope to hold my fourteen-and-a-half stone."

"I've often climbed tall trees for a hawk's nest," said the man, "but wouldn't a ladder do, sir?"

Cobham shook his head. "I thought of that at first, but it won't do. I'll give you another half-crown if you carry out my instructions. The first thing is to get a good rope and knot it. Bring it up to me in Mr. Cupola's bedroom at once."

He was humming again now, and looked strangely restless and excited, in spite of his usual solidity, when the man had left him to go in search of the rope.

"You're either a damn fool or not a bad imitation of a detective, old man!" he said to himself as he went upstairs. "A few days will tell you which it is!"

She
has learned how to keep clothes new looking twice as long

(the same way the movies do)

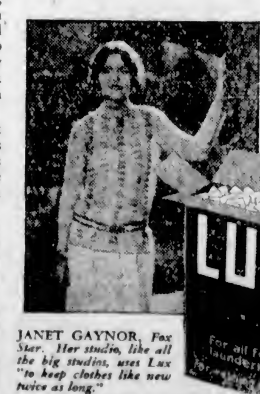

"I DO have more pretty clothes now, though I don't spend any more than I used to. The reason is, I've discovered how to keep everything I wear like new so much longer. Instead of spending all my money just to replace things that look old and shabby too quickly, now I can buy extra clothes."

"I learned the secret by reading about the movies—how they keep screen clothes just like new twice as long by always washing them in Lux. Since then, I've used Lux for all my things—stockings, undies, gloves, sweaters, dresses."

"It's perfectly marvelous what a difference this makes. All my clothes look like new so much longer. Now, I don't have to spend every cent just replacing worn-outs. I can afford luxuries."

You, too, can have the same wonderful results with Lux. . . keep all your clothes new looking far, far longer. . .

Then your clothes money won't all go into replacing worn-outs—you can afford so many extra nice things.

RUSSIANS HAVE

ONE DAY IN FIVE

UNDER NEW SYSTEM

MOSCOW, Feb. 1.—Sundays no longer exist in Soviet Russia as regular days of rest.

The seven-day "non-stop" working week, which allows one group of workers to rest one day in every five while another group is carrying on their work, has been inaugurated in almost every institution, bureau, library, museum, school, factory, mine and retail shop, and will soon be introduced in theatres, newspapers and hospitals.

This system, which divides the 24 hours into three different working shifts, has enabled the Government to attain something like "perpetual human motion." At no hour of the day or night, under the new seven-day working week, is any factory, shop or Government enterprise idle. At the same time every worker has a full 24-hour rest period every five days.

According to the Government, the new system of working hours has resulted in increased productivity, and has actually given the workers more repose and time for recreation than when only Sundays were observed as days of rest.

Read This

These remarkable Radios were received in Western Canada too late for distribution and we were fortunate in securing them. They are the very latest in radio design and cabinet work, manufactured by the Sonora Corporation and fully licensed under Canadian Radio Patents, Ltd. Hundreds of sets have been sold throughout Canada at the regular prices and now we offer them at a reduction of almost half. We believe they will be sold out by noon Monday, as we have only 15 of these Lowboys. In any case, this price is for Monday selling only. We strongly urge you to be on hand when the store opens at 9 a.m.

The Set

Eight tubes in all, four screen-grid, three tuned stages of screen-grid radio frequency, screen-grid power detector, two audio amplifiers in push-pull system, 14-inch power dynamic speaker. Extreme sensitivity and selectivity. Synchro-tone modulator controls volume with smoothness and precision. Special filter eliminates all hum. Very quiet in performance.

The Cabinet

Built by Sonora. A beautiful modified Gothic design, paneled in rare specimens of lacewood and American walnut.

Our Guarantee

Your money refunded in full within five days from date of purchase if you are not entirely satisfied. Fully guaranteed by the manufacturers and ourselves. Installed to your aerial and serviced for thirty days free.

World-Famous Stories

THE MISSING MAN

By WILLIAM AUSTIN

(William Austin, 1778-1861, was one of the earliest American writers to contribute to the short literature of the world. "The Missing Man," the full title of which is "Peter Rugg, the Missing Man," is very famous as one of the oldest examples of its kind.)

Business called me to Boston in the summer of 1820. I sailed in the packet to Providence, and when I arrived there I learned that every seat in the stage was engaged. I was thus obliged to wait either a few hours, or accept a seat with the driver, who civilly offered me that accommodation. Accordingly I took my seat by his side and soon found him intelligent and communicative. When we had traveled about ten miles the horses suddenly threw their ears as if they were afraid of a hare. Said the driver: "Have you a raincoat with you?" "No," said I. "Why do you ask?" "You will want one soon," said he, "for don't you observe the ears of all the horses?" "Yes, but what has that to do with it?" I asked. "They are the storm breeder, and we shall see him soon," said the driver. At this moment there was not a cloud visible in the firmament. Soon after a small speck appeared down the road. "There," said my companion, "comes the storm breeder; he always leaves a Scotch mist behind him. By many a wet jacket do

I remember him. I suppose the poor fellow suffers much himself, much more than is known to the world." Presently a man with a child beside him, with a large black horse and a weatherbeaten chair, one built for a chaise body, passed in great haste, apparently at the rate of twelve miles an hour. He seemed to grasp the reins of his horse with firmness and appeared to anticipate his speed. He seemed dejected, and looked anxiously at the passengers, particularly at the stage driver and myself. In a moment after he passed us the horses ears were up and bent themselves forward so that they nearly met. "Who is that man?" I asked. "He seems in great trouble." "Nobody knows who he is, but his person and the child are familiar to me. I have met them more than a hundred times, and have been so often asked the way to Boston by that man, even when he was traveling directly away from that town, that of late I have refused to answer him, and that is the reason he gave me such a fixed look." "But does he never stop anywhere?"

Palatial Clubhouse at Agua Caliente

The above deal presents a very close question as to whether the final bid should be Hearts or No Trumps. While game can be made at either declaration it is more easily made in No Trumps than Hearts, as is so frequently the case when the suit bid is four-card or a weak five-card suit, and partner holds but three cards of suit. Thus, the bidding given above in both Contract and Auction follows along the lines of greatest efficiency, so forcibly brought to our attention by the necessities of Contract bidding. I do not care to go on record as stating that North and South should necessarily arrive at a No Trump contract. As a matter of fact, the best bid of the combined hands is Spades at which North and South can make five-odd, provided they do not lead trumps. It would be interesting for my readers to figure out how five-odd

SALIENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING

Auction: South and West passing. North opens the bidding with one No Trump. East passing. South takes-out with two Hearts. West passing. North is in doubt whether to rest content or try a second bid in No Trumps. Electing the latter, he bids two No Trumps, concluding the bidding. Contract: At Contract, South and West passing. North opens with Two Diamonds; East passing. South takes-out with two Hearts. West passing. North has an extremely close question whether to bid three Hearts or two No Trumps. Feeling that a three Heart bid might not be advanced by South, North preferably bids two No Trumps, leaving the selection of a further bid to South. Whether that of three Hearts or three No Trumps. South, whose Hearts are too weak to rebid, bids three No Trumps, concluding the bidding.

THE PLAY

East opens the Three of Clubs. The Dummy going down, North plays the Eight from Dummy, West, the Jack; and North, the King. With no sure entry in Dummy, North leads a small Heart figuring to lose a Heart trick at once. To this lead, East plays the Jack, which North refuses to cover with the King in Dummy. East now leads the Two of Clubs, which North wins with the Ten in Dummy. As may be seen, North makes ten tricks on the hand, two Clubs, four Hearts, three Diamonds, and one Spade. While ten tricks can be made at Hearts, it is not so easy as at No Trumps. Thus the latter bid turned out to be the preferable one of the two.

"I have never known him to stop anywhere longer than to inquire the way to Boston, and let him be where he may, he will tell you he cannot stay a moment, for he must reach Boston that night."

Further, this man was always reputed to be followed by a heavy storm. Sure enough, he was this time also—the rain came down in torrents. Later I learned that he was seen in several places variously distant from Boston, always inquiring the way, always in a hurry to reach Boston before night. What did it mean? Even when I learned he went by the name of Peter Rugg I could get no definite information about him. Few people knew more than what seemed to be a legend that he was a perpetual wanderer in search of Boston, always followed by a storm at his heels. Inquiring in Boston I learned that once he was supposed to have called at what he claimed was his old home there, but seeing everything changed, and being told it was twenty years since places he mentioned had existed, he decided he was not in the Boston he knew but in some other town—and drove on, still searching for Boston. Then there came a man who told me this story:

"Do you really think you have seen Peter Rugg? I have heard my grandfather speak of him as though he seriously believed his own story. Peter Rugg, if my grandfather was worthy of credit, once lived in Boston—in comfortable circumstances, with a wife and one daughter, generally esteemed for his sober life and manners. But unapplying his temper at times was altogether ungovernable, and then his language was terrible. People said that in one of these fits of passion heaven would some day take vengeance for his impley."

"It was late in Autumn, one morning, that Rugg, in his own chair, with a fine large bay horse, took his daughter and proceeded to Concord. On his return a violent storm overtook him. At dark he stopped at what is the West Cambridge, at the door of a Mr. Cutler, a friend of his, who urged him to tarry over night. On Rugg's declining to stop, Mr. Cutler urged him vehemently: 'Why, Mr. Rugg, said Cutler, the storm is overtaking you; the night is exceedingly dark; your little daughter will perish; you are in an open chair, and the tempest is increasing.'

"Let the storm increase!" cried Rugg, with a fearful oath. 'I will see home tonight, in spite of the last tempest! Or may I never see home!'

At these words he gave his whip to his high-spirited horse and disappeared in a moment. But Peter Rugg did not reach home that night, nor the next; nor, when he became a missing man, could he ever be traced beyond Mr. Cutler's door. For a long time after, on every dark and stormy night, the wife of Peter Rugg would fancy she heard the crack of a whip and the fleet tread of a horse passing her door. The neighbors, too, heard the same noise, and some said they knew it was Rugg's horse; the tread on the pavement was perfectly familiar to them. This occurred so repeatedly that at length the neighbors watched with lanterns and saw the real Peter Rugg, with his own horse and chair and child sitting beside him, pass directly before his own door, his head turning toward his house and himself making every effort to stop his horse, but in vain. "The next day the friends of Mrs. Rugg exerted themselves to find her husband and child. They inquired at every public house in town; but it did not appear that Rugg was any stay in Boston. No one, after Rugg had passed his own door, could give any account of him; though it was asserted by some that the clatter of Rugg's horse and carriage over the pavements shook the houses on both sides of the street. Rugg's neighbors never watched for him again; some of them treated it all as a delusion, and thought no more of it."

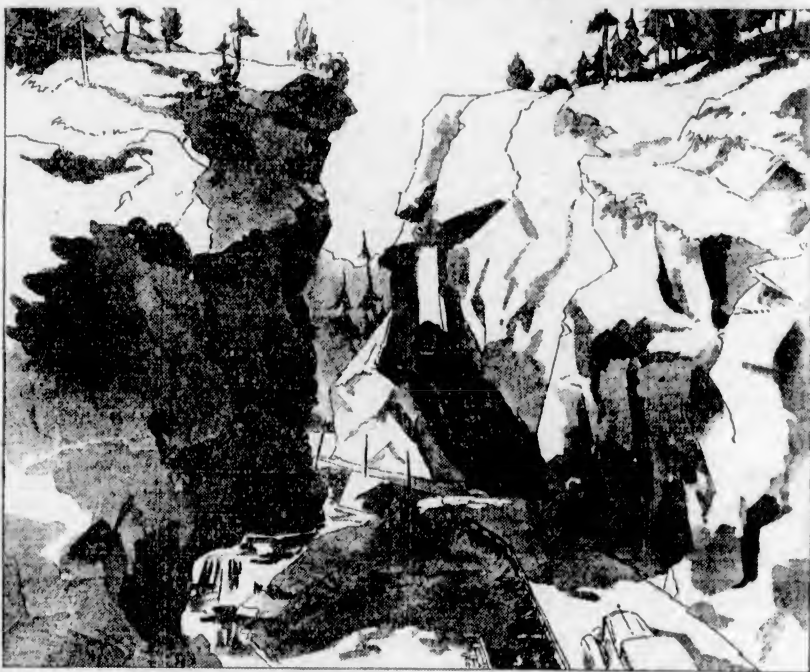

"There was a rumor that Rugg was seen afterward in Connecticut, passing through like a streak of lightning. But the next day he was heard of winding around the hills of New Hampshire, or in Rhode Island, inquiring the way to Boston. Then there was the toll gatherer of the Charlestown Bridge, who said that a horseman answering Peter Rugg's description often thundered across without paying toll. So one night he determined to stop this man, and stood ready with a stool for weapon. When Peter Rugg passed he threw the stool at the horse—this stool, as the toll gatherer, went through the body of the horse. Whether Peter Rugg ever passed again the man would never tell. And thus Peter Rugg and his child, horse, and carriage, remain a mystery unexplained to this day."

TORONTO, Jan. 30.—Lord Tennyson, the great English poet, was the reincarnation of the Roman poet, Vergil; Gladstone was a later life of Cicero; King Edward I came back to this earth again as King Edward VII, and William the Conqueror and Lord Kitchener were the same men at different periods, according to the opinion of Clara M. Codd, senior national lecturer of the theosophical society, and one of the most-travelled women in the world, who is visiting Canada. She states that life, as we know it, is but a day in the great immortal soul life; that some day the human race will have reached a stage when it will be able to read and see all that ever happened on the earth, and that the atom is being guarded by great men who have passed from this earth and that it will not be discovered or put into use until all possibilities of wars have passed. She says that the three great nations, the British Empire, United States and Germany, will continue supreme until they reach their zenith. They then will fade away, and from America will come the next great race. These are but a few of the sensational beliefs held by the visitor. Miss Codd was one of the chief lieutenants of Sylvia Pankhurst in the move to enfranchise women in England. She took part in the famous raid upon the House of Commons, where 3,000 special "bob-ties" had been detailed to subdue the mob. Miss Codd has been lecturing for twenty years, during which time she has visited every continent and many countries, yet this is her first visit to Canada. "Theosophy has shown me that all men are not equals," she said. "Some men have character behind them that has taken several lives to accumulate. Others are new on this earth and are not so far advanced." "Some day I think we all will be able to see into the past," she stated.

World-Famous Stories.

THE MISSING MAN

By WILLIAM AUSTIN

(William Austin, 1778-1841, was one of the earliest American writers to contribute to the short literature of the world. This story, the full title of which is "Peter Rugg, the Missing Man," is very famous as one of the oldest examples of its kind.)

Business called me to Boston in the summer of 1820. I sailed in the packet to Providence, and when I arrived there I learned that every seat in the stage was engaged. I was thus obliged to wait either a few hours, or accept a seat with the driver, who civilly offered me that accommodation. Accordingly I took my seat by his side and soon found him intelligent and communicative. When we had traveled about ten miles the horses suddenly threw their ears on their necks as flat as a hare's. Said the driver: "Have you a raincoat with you?"

"No," said I. "Why do you ask?" "You will want one soon," said he, "for don't you observe the ears of all the horses?"

"Yes, but what has that to do with it?" I asked. "They see the storm breeder, and we shall see him soon," said the driver. At this moment there was not a cloud visible in the firmament. Soon after a small speck appeared down the road. "There," said my companion, "comes the storm breeder; he always leaves a Scotch mist behind him. By many a wet jacket do

I remember him. I suppose the poor fellow suffers much himself, much more than is known to the world." Presently a man with a child beside him, with a large black horse and a weatherbeaten chair, one built for a chaise body, passed in great haste, apparently at the rate of twelve miles an hour. He seemed to grasp the reins of his horse with firmness and appeared to anticipate his speed. He seemed dejected, and looked anxiously at the passengers, particularly at the stage driver and myself. In a moment after he passed us the horses ears were up and bent themselves forward so that they nearly met.

"Who is that man?" I asked. "He seems in great trouble." "Nobody knows who he is, but his person and the child are familiar to me. I have met them more than a hundred times, and have been so often asked the way to Boston by that man, even when he was traveling directly away from that town, that of late I have refused to answer him, and that is the reason he gave me such a fixed look."

"But does he never stop anywhere?"

BOVRIL saves you weeks of weakness

One of the best Scots stories I ever remember hearing was told recently by Sir Harry Lauder. It concerned one of his countrymen living at Dover who got a French franc in his change. He decided to swim over to France to spend it. He swam well and steadily till within sight of Calais. There, his expected arrival having been heralded, the mayor turned out to the pier and seafront decorated with flags. The swimmer raised his head, saw the decorations and the crowd, thought it must be a flag day in Calais, and swam back!

The above deal presents a very close question as to whether the final bid should be Hearts or No Trumps. While game can be made at either declaration it is more easily made in No Trumps than Hearts, as is so frequently the case when the suit bid is four-card or a weak five-card suit, and partner holds but three cards of suit. Thus, the bidding given above in both Contract and Auction follows along the lines of greatest efficiency, so forcibly brought to our attention by the necessities of Contract bidding. I do not care to go on record as stating that North and South should necessarily arrive at a No Trump contract. As a matter of fact, the best bid of the combined hands is Spades at which North and South can make five-odd, provided they do not lead trumps. It would be interesting for my readers to figure out how five-odd can be made at Spades, always assuming East to open the Ace of Clubs against a four-Spade bid by North, who could try a two Spade bid on the second round instead of two No Trumps, a bid which would naturally be carried to four-odd.

SALIENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING
Auction: South and West passing, North opens the bidding with one No Trump. East passing. South takes-out with two Hearts. West passing, North is in doubt whether to rest content or try a second bid in No Trumps. Electing the latter, he bids two No Trumps, concluding the bidding. Contract: At Contract, South and West passing, North opens with Two Diamonds; East passing. South takes-out with two Hearts. West passing, North has an extremely close question whether to bid three Hearts or two No Trumps. Feeling that a three Heart bid might not be advanced by South, North preferably bids two No Trumps, leaving the selection of a further bid to South, whether that of three Hearts or three No Trumps. South, whose Hearts are too weak to rebid, bids three No Trumps, concluding the bidding.

THE PLAY
East opens the Three of Clubs. The Dummy going down, North plays the Eight from Dummy. West, the Jack; and North, the King. With no sure entry in Dummy, North leads a small Heart figuring to lose a Heart trick at once. To this lead, East plays the Jack, which North refuses to cover with the King in Dummy. East now leads the Two of Clubs, which North wins with the Ten in Dummy.

As may be seen, North makes ten tricks on the hand, two Clubs, four Hearts, three Diamonds, and one Spade. While ten tricks can be made at Hearts, it is not so easy as at No Trumps. Thus the latter bid turned out to be the preferable one of the two.

Smart Attire for the Well-Dressed Woman

Patou's Afternoon Coats

PATOU successfully is absorbed in his mission of creating costumes that will dress the woman to suit the occasion. He thus divides and subdivides the day and night sartorially to the great enhancement of the feminine genre.

Afternoon coats a la Patou designed for mild weather wearing, which in our parlance means Spring and Summer, will have a marked influence on costumes of the approaching season. These happies are executed from light weight and semi-sheer silks correctly ensembled with dresses in a silhouette to correspond and to further the fabric and color scheme.

The intermediate ensemble conceived by this designer will carry one from afternoon event to dinner engagement without loss of time or sacrifice of the essential well-dressed feeling and appearance for either occasion.

In this Patou has accomplished the ideal, first by selecting a typically afternoon material such as black tulle, georgette or crepe roman, then by fashioning the dress in the correct extended length, with an eight to ten inch shorter coat of the same fabric. The wearing of a coat, such as either one illustrated, in the late afternoon to cover the regulation dinner dress cut with a gesture towards a décolletage implies no difficulty. And the small hat softened by egret or glycerine brush trimming may be as easily removed as the coat.

The scalloped theme carried out in the coat at the left and repeated in the dress is one which will exert considerable influence on rather exclusive Springtime styles.

Similarly the bolero back model, trimmed as are the sleeves with bands terminating in a series of loops, is possibly the forerunner of the smart Spring coat for the afternoon ensemble.

Paris Moulds the Figure

THE relation of the corset to the present silhouette is deemed very important by the French couture. Patou, largely responsible, perhaps entirely so, for the new figure, aims to restrain it by a foundation which schools it to the Grecian bend, throwing out the bust and stressing the natural curve at the back of the corset.

The rebellion against corsets is due to the fact that the very name has been linked with constructing garments, much boned and withal uncomfortable, as were the relics of the past.

Every woman with a tendency to a full figure has realized for years the necessity for a foundation. The new models heralded under the name of corsets are, in many instances, entirely boneless, allowing freedom of movement while they support and improve the figure.

Cadolle, for example, sponsors shorter girdles for sports or daytime wear, supporting the hips and abdomen without compression. These slip on without any opening, or lace a short distance down the back or front.

Longer sheaths from Cadolle fit the bust closely and extend to well below the hips. Usually they are of pink elastic tissue trimmed with cream colored or pink lace, and they fasten by hooking down the side, though a few fasten down the front, where they are reinforced by a band of pink satin.

Some Cadolle models have bandeaux attached, while others are accompanied by separate bandeaux which may be left off at will. Two such types are illustrated.

Charnay makes one corset specially designed to support the diaphragm, as at the right, where a brassiere and side panels are of lace combined with a narrow diamond-shaped satin applique on the front to strengthen the lace. The back is entirely of satin.

Detolle favors the foundation garment and the girdle that are snug and enveloping, making them of pink linen lawn or satin combined with knit rubber tissue for the front and sides, the brassieres of a sheer fabric. Some corsets are reinforced in front by a double piece of the material placed crosswise and machine stitched in many rows to avoid stretching.

Corsets in general are no more restricting of movement than the foundations to which women long have been accustomed. They are truth made of more refined materials rather than the sturdy stuffs peculiar to this sort of undergarment.

EVENING GLOVES

Gloves for formal evening occasions are being worn about Paris to a moderate extent, but are far from universally adopted. White tulle kid gloves in the twelve-button length predominance and are worn chiefly with white evening dresses. Consistently black suede mousquetaires are seen with black frocks. Beige suede fills a niche all its own without relation to the color of any costume.

These long formal gloves are adjusted without much wrinkling, they fit the arm, fairly tight and diamond bracelets to the number of two, three, or more are slipped over one glove only.

SPORTS JEWELRY

The string of beads omnipresent in daytime as well as evening accessories takes an independent form for active sports. The beach suit is given a last final touch of color by a strand of bright colored beads, per chance of gaiety. And with the golf trousers or shorts and tucked-in shirts of cotton there are straw leis to adorn the neck and at least one wrist.

Bare-Arm Resort Vogue

THE formality of Winter fashions which exacted the long close fitting or the draped sleeve for many daytime models is yielding as the new season approaches. For the cult of the sun will again be followed ardently by way of short cap sleeves or none at all. From the dresses designed for resort sojourners one may predict that a bare-armed Summer quite in the feminine manner will naturally ensue.

In this particular era in clothes the cap sleeve has a normal place in models that might have been entirely sans sleeves in former seasons. The sleeveless mode carries on, yet the abbreviated sleeve looks newer and is more becoming to the majority of women.

The cap sleeve is all that the name implies and is at its best when cut in one with the shoulder portion, giving a softer line than the sewed-in type. What lengths this short sleeve will take is illustrated by the fetching dress at the left, shown in one of the Avenue shops in both plain and printed crepes. Its petal trimming is one of the most successful lingerie touches. A prominence of the hips is indicated by the seaming of the circular side flares posed just below the beltline.

One of the short-skirted daytime frocks Paris concedes for sports and informal morning wear is the shirtwaist model shown, right, in one very wearable version. In this the cotton fabric is treated to small box pleats to form the skirt and to stitching on the wide shapely belt and Peter Pan collar.

The shades of yesterday are revealed in the flounced afternoon dress, centre, done in either light pink or blue eyelet embroidery. Its very interest lies in the familiarity of the circular skirt attached to a hip yoke and a lengthened hemline by way of a gathered flounce. The crossed collar with knife-pleated edging encircles the bodice like a bolero, also defining the waistline. It is decidedly reminiscent of the cottons which flourished in the hands of amateur dressmakers during the early years of the century. Yet in its revival it curiously bears the stamp of the skilled seamstress.

Alluring Southern dresses with charm are of handkerchief linen and pique in pastel colors, which several shops are offering at appealing prices. These are in both sleeveless and long-sleeved interpretations and are tempting as breakfast frocks to be worn in Northern apartments and homes. Fancy the allure of a fresh white linen model with an allover embroidered dot design in red, blue, green or even in black. White, eggshell, flesh or peach, maize, orchid, blue and green offer a wide color choice.

Sports Shirting Striped

THE introduction of whimsicalities in dress at such places of out-of-door frolic as Antibes often red, blue, green or even in black. White, eggshell, flesh or peach, maize, orchid, blue and green offer a wide color choice.

including ivory white, flesh, pink, tea rose, pale green, orchid, light blue and maize.

Dressmaker Jewelry

PATOU, credited with immortalable jewel novelties, has created a very soft feminine necklace appropriately described as dressmaker jewelry.

What more consistent with the softly moulded and drapy silhouette of the afternoon than a long necklace of beads covered with crepe de Chine!

Exquisitely fine plecting on turquoise-colored crepe de Chine moulds rather large round bead forms interspersed with smaller crystal beads and tiny rondels.

Paris Approves Laces

FROM the perspective of the French couturier, lace is the dressiest media for formal afternoon frocks and evening gowns. Its distinction at the present time is shared only with plain and fancy nets.

The type of lace an individual chooses ordinarily is dependent upon the fancy of the designer of the dress. But there are several laces much used now to satisfy a personal preference.

The heavier laces with small patterns very close together, Chantilly and Spanish have a vogue.

Black seems to predominate in the color range, yet Autumn brown and the shade of the brown sugar have a new style value in both laces and nets, doubtless for the reason that these tones are offset by the pink coat so many women favor for both daytime and evening wear in the coldest months of the year.

Colors such as eggplant, a hue which the very name describes, sky blue, pink and garnet red are shown in moderation.

Laces and nets of the clire genre are used to a sufficient extent as to promise their retaining prestige during the remainder of the Winter season. Novelty appears as a lelong dress having tiers of stiffened tulle in effect yet in reality made of graduating widths of horsehair braid. The horsehair note also is used by Louiseboulanger in large rosettes for evening dress.

The long-sleeved dinner dress illustrated is a Renee conception in dark blue lace, its sleeves moulding the arms, the round neck severely simple, and the hemline sloping to the side following the hip seam. Cream lace, instead of lightening the bodice at neck or the sleeves at the lower arm, edges the trimming at the hip, a characteristic of the designer.

Typically Chanel is the black lace evening gown in which the one-sided tiered treatment of the skirt shows ingenious cut and handling. The belt is tailored, the bodice hangs free like a bolero, while the neckline is draped in berth-a-style.

New Curves of the Brim

AS millinery of distinctly new designing appears for the Southland, brims begin to be very apparent on models to be worn in town. The moderately narrow brim, shortened in front and scooping down at the sides so that the contour of the hat remains quite small, suggests a very flattering silhouette, but one which will not entirely obliterate the off-the-face type still retaining its style prestige.

Present indications point toward the acceptance of both these phases of the millinery mode. Yet brims are destined to be widely adopted with the princess of straight belted type as borders also are used.

Two felt models from Rose Descat and Agnes. In both of these emblems is laid on back trimming, the remainder of the hat being artfully simple.

An example of the pretty off-the-face hat which Agnes sponsors in the sports to the afternoon mode. Shown, developed in tan linen, the edges of which are unfinished. While the brim is negligible at the centre, from front it scoops down at the sides in a perfect frame for the face.

The scoopy stitched hat of such material as shantung, linen, or felt is alluring for sportswear and already has become a feature in smart shops.

DIPPED BLOUSE BACKS

The dress that wears the dropped blouse of bolero back is a flattering type for a great many figures. A number of wearable new models show these modifications of the normal waistline and offer many possibilities for the figure with the hollow back or other defects that make the princess of straight belted type impossible to wear. This theme also follows the mode for that becoming dip-in-back line. The most attractive blouse backs have a decided dip in the centre.

Designs of New Silk Prints

AS the French couturiers consider printed silks for daytime costumes of importance, they are as yet rather rare, the proportion appearing to be one in every ten of twelve models.

The favored silk fabrics for printed designs are crepe de Chine and tulle in tiny or medium-sized flower and leaf sprays, either multi-colored or in two-color effects, patterns on georgette and satin are not often employed.

Very few geometric motifs are seen in dress models. Maggy Rouff shows three frocks of even hemline done in laces or prints. Germaine Lecomte sponsors a printed maroon dress with a shepherd's check pattern. Pin dot prints in white on black or navy backgrounds, as well as fancy dot patterns, suggesting a revival of the dot and spot motifs, are seen infrequently in the present collections.

COTTON SUITS

The casual suit of cotton or linen is seen in various guises. It may consist of a dress and short jacket, or of a skirt, blouse and jacket. One Southland model is striking in brown and tan linen. Such a suit in street colors may end by being a very important town fashion for Summer.

Shortest Skirt Lengths

OWING, perhaps to the mobility of American mentality, especially in the case of women, designers, dressmakers and stylists have swayed but only partially persuaded them to accept the extremities of the present mode. Fashions have become more personal, more individual, and the skirt is long or longer as a woman sees fit to adopt.

Exceedingly formal evening gowns are of a length that reaches the tips of the toes. But for ease in dancing there is a happy mean which many women prefer to exaggerations. The dipping hemline may be high at its shortest point, but it does not fall to a decided length when the wearer is not in motion. How short the dancer's skirt may be and face the gamut of critical eyes in the realm of fashion is indicated by these recently designed costumes created from the now durable transparent velvet, otherwise termed as lole silvel. This is the velvet that will endure stress and strain, that will not crush when the fastidiously dancer seeks relaxation in a chair.

A style point universally agreed upon by designers is the severely simple evening bodice, however much the skirt may be designed with intricacy of detail, dipping and flaring skirts. And the décolletage is modestly high, frequently rounded at the back instead of being cut in a V to the very waistline.

The tiered skirt with modified trailing panel is an attractive type for the dancer, as illustrated by the gown shown in rear view. This model is developed in sheer velvet of the bright shade of blue introduced this season. It is unadorned by any sort of ornament.

Adversely, the designer of the second dress of gold sheer velvet sought an effect of brilliance by adding a narrow rhinestone beading about the décolletage and as an emphasis to the waistline.

The Trend in Coats

THE radical change in the lines of coats for Autumn has been modified slightly. And from the appearance of certain recent originals imported for American adaptation, there is a tendency to what might be considered a return to the normal. At least exaggerations in flares and lengths are not seen in models intended for late Winter and early Spring.

There are a few rules couturiers apply to coats which indicate the general trend in such wraps from the sports to the afternoon mode. Coats are not shorter usually where their fabrics differ from those of accompanying dresses. The separate coat covers the skirt hemline.

Belts, preferably of self material, at the normal or near-to-normal waistline add to the swag of tailored and sports coats in which the hems are moderately flared. Tailored models cut on straight lines are unbelted.

The cape is, rather prominent in various manifestations including the shoulder type, and the cape back either in one piece or divided.

Tweeds singularly are untrammelled with fur this season, this being restricted to the more drab street and afternoon as well as evening coats, on which chokers, small shawl collars, cravats and bow trimmings are in such furs as astrakhan, brieux, schawts, galyak, white and Summer ermine and fox.

The new and good looking version of Vionnet's wrap-around coat shown in centre is designed from a soft wool crepe, in this particular instance a bright red. There is a very slight flare to the hemline, but

WINTER COTTONS

The two heavier and lustrous cottons, velveteen and corduroy are seen in some of the most attractive costumes for Winter sports, such as skiing and skating. Whole suits are made of corduroy in a vivid red brilliant green, or raven black, and they are gayer still when worn with bright silk or wool scarfs, berets to match the suits, and clever gauntlet gloves.

A skating costume de luxe is of velveteen and comprises a circular skirt and lumberjack coat which ends in a band at the waistline, fastening with buttons to the chin.

An occasional daytime frock of black velveteen seems especially chic after the long reign of silk crepes in solid color.

7-4; Reinfield, 5-4-3-4; Bigelow (champion), 5-4-4-4. Marshall's simultaneous display at the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences resulted in his winning 21 games to 3 losses and 1 draw.

Manhattan C.C. Championship—The leading scores are: Kashdan, 8-5; Steiner, 5-6; Pinkus, 4-5; Jackson, 3-3; Willman, 3-3.

New York Metropolitan Chess League—Nine clubs will play for the championship, viz., the Hungarian, Scandinavian, Marshall, Scotch Island, Empire City, Columbia University, Stuyvesant, Philidor and the Manhattan. Last year the Marshall's won in a hair-raising finish by half a point over the four times previous winners, the Hungarians. The visit of Columbia's players to West Point was eminently successful, as Uncle Sam's cadets, lacking experience, were no match for the city-bred experts of the Blue and White, who scored 7½ points out of 8.

Hungarian C.C. Championship—The scores to date are: J. Huszar, 10-6; Dr. Kline, 7-1; O. Parlos, 8-4-2-4.

The Weekly Rapid Transit of the Rice Progressive C.C. resulted as follows: Kupchik, 10-0; Groomer, 7-4-3-4; D. Pollard, 7-3; Cloppes, 6-4; B. Gosselin, 5-5.

Italy, San Remo—The standing to date is: Dr. Alechin, 5½-4½; and won 5 and then drew with Spielman; Tartakower, 4-2; Bogoljubov, Nimovich and Rubenstein, each, 3½-2½; Yates, Kmoch, Ahues, Spielman and Vidmar, each, 3-3; Maroczy, Monticelli and Graub, each, 2½-3½; Colle and Arana, each, 2-4; Romi, 1½-4½.

The meeting of Alechin and Nimovich drew a large attendance to the San Remo Casino, expecting a combat of titans, but the Dane was not in his usual form and resigned at the thirty-first move. Monticelli's victory over Bogoljubov effected by a surprise move was much admired.

Victoria Chess Club—The yearly tournament for the City Championship and custody of the Gonnason Cup, now held by W. J. Barker, attracted the following entry. Score as follows: Barker won 6, lost 0; Gonnason, 3-1; Marchant, 2-1; Bahder, 3-4; Burns, 2-3; McMicking, 2-2; Zwinger, 2-5; Cox, Alexander, Knight and Ramsay will play later. The City Championship was organized by C. F. Davis, M.P.P., who was the first city champion. The title has also been held by Messrs. Partington, Gonnason and Knowles, whilst Dr. F. K. Young and Max Emke have tied with W. J. B., but both lost in the play-off, though Dr. Young succeeded in winning 3½ and Max Emke, a Ladder Tournament with ten competing is also in full swing. In the "ladder" a player is bound to play a game with the one below on the club list, the winner's name topping the loser's. The leaders are: Gibson, first; McMicking, second; Marchant, third; Sander, fourth; Barker, fifth.

There was a striking manifestation of the Christmas spirit at the Bradford (West Riding) police court. Two men charged with fighting were fined 18s. each. One, who admitted being the aggressor, offered to pay the fine of the other.

The Chairman: That is very sporty of you. It is not often we get such sports in this court. In the circumstances your fine will be remitted, and I will pay the other man's fine.

"You must give your husband five leaspoonfuls of this mixture every night before he goes to bed," ordered the doctor.

The patient's wife looked a little disconcerted.

"Five!" she said. "I can't, doctor. I'm afraid that's quite impossible."

The doctor frowned.

"Impossible?" he said. "Oh, nonsense! What on earth do you mean?"

"I don't think we've got more than three in the house."

'ADS' IN MEXICO CAUSE LAUGHTER

Classified Sections Create Considerable Amusement for English-Speaking Visitors

(Special to The Colonist, Copyright 1929).

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 30.—The classified advertisements which are carried daily by the Mexican newspapers are a source of considerable amusement and some little profit for Canadians and Britishers residing in this country. Scanning these tabloid announcements, which are carried to the extent of four pages daily in the leading prints, affords the English-speaking foreigner a good working knowledge of Spanish and the way it is handled in Mexico. These ads are almost as funny and as pathetic as are the announcements found in the "agony columns" carried by British newspapers.

Such pleas as the following are quite common:

"Attention! Most beautiful play-er piano, complete with great variety of rolls—Mexican music, operatic and jazz, is offered for sale. This beautiful thing cost me no less than 2,000 pesos in hard cash, but I am offering it to you for the ridiculous price of 675 pesos! My reason for desiring to dispose of this thing is, which would make any man happy, is a sad one: Frustrated matrimonial plans! That is my reason for this extraordinary sacrifice. Investigation reveals that the advertiser is sometimes a jilted swain or not infrequently, a sad senorito.

Deaths of Patients Under Anaesthetics To Be Investigated

(Special to The Colonist, Copyright 1929).

TORONTO, Jan. 30.—Investigation of deaths attributed to anaesthetics will be made by a group of anaesthetists affiliated with the Academy of Medicine of Toronto, and their findings will be submitted at the meeting on February 28. They will not be made public prior to that date.

The probe has been prompted by the number of alleged anaesthetic deaths during the past few months. The exact nature of the investigation was not described by Dr. C. H. Robson, anaesthetist of the Hospital for Sick Children, but it is expected to consist in part of a survey of deaths which occurred while patients were under the influence of different anaesthetics.

WHY A STOCK EXCHANGE?

Markets are older than civilization. From the dawn of history markets have served to facilitate exchange of cattle, money, and merchandise. Through the ages a babel of shouting voices resounded in Babylon, Pekin, Nischni Novgorod, Calcutta, Carthage, Rome, Berlin, Paris, London, New York.

Organization of joint stock companies more than 150 years ago as a means of raising capital for business enterprises created a necessity for a market for stocks. The first exchange was organized in London in 1773. It steadily evolved through cumbersome methods to an efficient system. This experience stands behind trading systems now practiced in exchanges like London, New York, Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver.

Every method is practiced to insure fairness to investors and prevent unethical manipulation of prices. The system of trading is recognized as fair and equitable throughout the world. The Vancouver Exchange operates under a Charter passed and approved by the Provincial Parliament on April 25th, 1907.

A market place for the buying and selling of stocks, the Vancouver Stock Exchange is essential to commerce. If foreign capital is to flow freely in developing Western Canadian resources, the prestige of this institution must be maintained. The Exchange brings buyer and seller in contact with each other, sets a recognized current price for listed stocks and is a barometer of the success of individual enterprises.

An Exchange is a disinterested party in transactions between selling and buying interests of the public. Fluctuations take their course in accordance with buying and selling orders. When the public gives buying support to certain stocks, prices rise. When support is withdrawn, prices fall. Predictions as to possible values is a matter the client alone can decide for himself. The Exchange is a machine registering day after day what the public is paying for stocks.

And as a piece of business machinery, the Stock Exchange attracts capital to mining undertakings or industrial enterprises which otherwise might never come into being. An Exchange is a Public Institution performing an age-old service of great value to Western Canada.

This advertisement is published by Members of the Vancouver Stock Exchange in order to disseminate information concerning the functions of a Stock Exchange and the Business of Buying and Selling Securities.
